BATTLE ARMY AEF PROPOSAL

Nazis Admit 'Obstinate Resistance' by Reds

PRESS TOWARD MOSCOW AFTER CROSSING RIVER

BERLIN, July 3 (AP). — German armies on the eastern front have run into bad weather which, combined with the "obstinate resistance" of the Russians, is affecting the fighting, the official German news agency DNB said tonight. Snow fell in the region of Lwow, in southeastern Poland.

These obstacles to the German offensive were reported after Reichsfuehrer Hitler's field headquarters had announced that soviet resistance appeared broken under the impact of a Nazi drive along "the entire 2,000 mile front between the Black sea and the Arctic ocean." The push was extended with launching of a massive drive into Bessarabia on the old border of Russia's rich Ukraine.

In phrases edited by Hitler himself, the high command reported that German, Finnish, Hungarian, and Rumanian forces were engaged along the entire front, with the likely objectives Russia's three most important cities: Kiev, the Ukraine capital, Moscow, and Leningrad.

Press Along Road to Moscow.

At the scene of Napoleon's disaster in his 1812 retreat from Moscow, Hitler's men pressed farther along the road to the soviet capital with the reported crossing of the Berezina river near Borizov. Borizov is about 50 miles beyond Minsk and about 375 miles from Moscow. Unofficial sources in Berlin claimed the crossing of the Berezina, altho the high command did not mention it.

[The Russians said the Germans had been thrown back with heavy losses in attempts to cross the Berezina. Newspapers in Stockholm reported that a German motorized column pushing along the Minsk to Moscow road, had reached Dorogobush, 60 miles east of Smolensk and about 186 miles from Moscow. Dorogobush is near where the Moscow railway crosses the Dnieper river. Reports reaching Ankara, Turkey, said preparations for the evacuation of Moscow were being made.]

Push Into Bessarabia.

The high command communique opened with announcement of the drive in the direction of Russia's rich industrial and agricultural Ukraine, saying "German and Rumanian units advancing from northern Moldavia yesterday crossed the Prut river and are advancing toward the Dniester."

The Prut is the boundary between Rumania and sovietized Bessarabia, while the Dniester is the western border of the Ukraine itself.

DNB said that Russian supply columns on the southern fronts, blocked by destroyed trucks and tanks, and other war materials on the roadways, were attacked today by German bombers. Russian losses were described as gigantic.

On the Baltic front commentators said the Germans had crossed the Dvina river leaving broken parts of Russian forces behind hopelessly trying to break out of the Riga-Dvinsk-Tilsit triangle. This meant, the commentators said, that the most difficult terrain in that area had been overcome and Nazi forces were pouring into Estonia.

FINNS CLAIM ADVANCE

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 4, Friday (AP).—Finland today issued its first communique on the new war with Russia, announcing that German-Finnish forces had "crossed the eastern border in northern Finland, and are advancing according to plan."

[Neither the Finns nor Germans took cognizance of reports reaching Sweden that German-Finnish forces already had occupied Murmansk, Russian arctic port.]

Finnish planes and anti-aircraft guns downed 48 Russian planes up to July 2. Russian planes attacked the Malmi airdrome on the eastern outskirts of Helsingfors yesterday. Smoke was seen arising from the vicinity and it was believed a forest fire had been started by incendiary bombs.

CITY'S MIGHTY CELEBRATION OF JULY 4TH BEGINS

Travel Records Seen in Triple Holiday.

Chicagoland and the nation this morning began a mighty celebration, marking the 165th anniversary of American independence.

The dawn ushered in a triple holiday expected to bring out the greatest Fourth of July crowds in a decade, if not in history. Forecasts for ideal summer weather—especially in the central west—herald new records in travel, patriotic gatherings, and public and private entertainments.

Spectacle in Soldiers' Field.

Chicago's greatest single celebration for those who remain in town will be the patriotic spectacle and fireworks display beginning at 7:30 p. m. in Soldiers' field sponsored by the Cook county council of the American Legion. Col. A. A. Sprague is honorary chairman.

Fighting planes of the United States Naval reserves will open the evening with a diving salute over the field. A flag raising ceremony will be conducted by the Board of Trade Legion post, bearing tattered battle flags that have been carried thru 93 years of American history by Board of Trade men.

During the fireworks display, scenes from America's colorful past will be etched in flame on towering set pieces. There will be martial music and drill teams.

Neighborhood Observances.

The celebration will close a day of neighborhood and suburban observances and a day of mass movement into and out of the city. Transportation and traffic experts estimate that in 24 hours more than 1,500,000 persons will have crossed the city limits, going or coming.

A survey of air lines indicates that every available plane will be in the sky during the triple holiday. The Illinois Central railroad has prepared for a 35 per cent travel increase over 1940. The New York Central will run more than 100 special and extra section trains.

The North Western expects a 20 per cent increase over 1940 and will run extra sections on all major trains.

But the great exodus, which began yesterday afternoon, is by private automobile. Motor clubs and traffic officials estimate that more than a million cars will carry pleasure seekers along the main routes of the four states during the three days.

Hours of Greatest Danger.

The hours of greatest danger will be those just after midnight Monday morning. Most of those who are to be killed in automobile accidents during the triple holiday probably will lose their lives during the early hours of Monday, according to traffic experts.

These figures are based upon the experience of several years. Charles A. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, cautioned against fatigue and carelessness on the return journey.

The National Safety council advised bathers not to enter the water after eating heavily, not to expose themselves unwisely to the direct rays of the sun, and—with Mayor Kelly—cautioned against the use of fireworks, urging that children who insist on pyrotechnics be taken to supervised public displays.

W-G-N BROADCASTS

Independence day programs will highlight W-G-N broadcasts today. At 4 to 4:15 President Roosevelt and Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone will be heard.

From 11 to 11:15 a. m., Bret Morrison, W-G-N actor, will read the Declaration of Independence. The signing of that fateful document will be recreated. The W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, will play a number of fitting airs, including "America," "Yankee Doodle," and "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean."

United States Senator Wayland Brooks of Illinois will speak at 9:15 to 9:30 a. m. from the seventh annual assembly of Premier Boys State, American Legion Citizenship training camp, in Springfield. His topic will be "Youth and Government."

Roosevelt July 4 Talk Awaited; Britain Hails Independence Day

Interventionist Rally

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 3.—President Roosevelt will observe the 165th anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence tomorrow by broadcasting to the nation a message on the relation of the United States to the war abroad in a giant pep rally promoted by the interventionists.

Added importance was attached to Mr. Roosevelt's message when it was disclosed tonight that the speech will be sent by short wave radio all over the world. The state department has arranged especially for translations to be broadcast to Latin American nations.

Pro-War Group Is Sponsor.

It was anticipated Mr. Roosevelt again would support the interventionist cause in general terms inasmuch as it was reliably reported today that the idea of the Independence day celebration was conceived and sponsored by the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, the foremost interventionist organization which has been urging American participation in the war.

According to reliable information, the CDAAA also "sold" Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City, the national civilian defense director, on the rally idea. His office is officially sponsoring the rally, which has been planned as a plea for national unity. La Guardia arranged to have Mr. Roosevelt speak and to have Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone deliver the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Baseball Games to Halt.

The rally will be broadcast tomorrow at 4 p. m., Chicago daylight time, at which time baseball games, picnics, and other holiday festivities thruout the nation will be halted while the President speaks.

Mr. Roosevelt will deliver his message to the nation from his office in the new Franklin D. Roosevelt library. Significantly, he will be seated at the desk used by President Woodrow Wilson in drafting the league of nations covenant while on his way to Europe on the S. S. George Washington in 1919. On this desk Mr. Roosevelt also has a volume on military tactics.

Adopts U. S. Holiday

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—The war and the need for American aid have vested American Independence day with a new importance in the eyes of Britishers. Not only in London, but in other leading cities, special celebrations have been arranged to mark the July 4 holiday tomorrow.

At Newcastle-on-the-Tyne the United States flag will be flown from the town hall and other public buildings. At a meeting of the city council the lord mayor declared:

"We are fully aware of the help we are receiving and are going to receive from America and we welcome this opportunity to pay homage to our good friends on the other side of the Atlantic."

Mayor to Hoist U. S. Emblem.

At Southport, also, the mayor will hoist the Stars and Stripes alongside the Union Jack over the town hall.

In London the American society will stage its usual luncheon party. Earlier in the day a memorial tablet will be unveiled at St. Paul's cathedral to Pilot Officer William L. Fiske, the first American born royal air force pilot to lose his life in active service in Britain. He was killed last August. At the Eagle club, where the members of the American Eagle squadron congregate, an RAF band has been detailed to entertain them with American songs and anthems.

All to Know July 4 Story.

"We have made up our minds," said an editor of the Express, which is owned by Lord Beaverbrook, minister of supply, "that after tomorrow every one of our readers is going to know just what American Independence day means. We're running a story about it in the morning on page one together with a big American flag."

The wording of the editorial was only one indication that the Fourth hitherto has been all but ignored by the British.

The Daily Telegraph today carried an article by its Washington, D. C., correspondent expressing concern that the British cause in America has suffered since Russia became an ally of this country.

ALL'S QUIET ON THE LANGAN LINE

An 8 Foot Fence Closes a 3 Year Feud.

To the famous boundary lines of history must now be added the Langan-Kane line, or, more properly, an eight foot fence. Completion of the fence this week has resulted in a cessation of hostilities in the three year feud between the Joseph Langans, 9435 South Leavitt street, and the John J. Kanes, next door at 9433 Leavitt.

Langan, a motion picture operator, explained yesterday as he pounded the last nail into the fence:

"We moved into this house six years ago, and this thing's been going on for three years.

Houses 1 Foot 10 Inches Apart.

"I don't know exactly what started it. Of course, there's only a foot and 10 inches between the two houses. Maybe we got cabin fever."

The proximity of the two houses resulted in some bitter disputes as to whose hedge was on whose property. Last September they argued it before a judge. The court ordered the Kanes to trim any hedge that overhung the Langan property.

"This spring, while I was making garden, Mrs. Kane squirted me with the garden hose," Langan continued. "We squirted at each other for several days, and she always seemed to get the first squirt.

"I couldn't figure it out till I discovered she kept the water on all the time. All she had to do was turn the nozzle, and I had to run all the way to the knob."

Friends Help Build Fence.

"We had a little problem there, too," Langan said. "I allowed two inches from the lot line for the boards. But Mrs. Kane came out with a blackthorn stick and said we couldn't swing a hammer over her property. You can't get much of a swing in two inches."

When Mrs. Kane was asked what she thought of it, she replied:

"There is a time for everything."

BY PERCY WOOD.

Ballots from 20 new Chicago wards, tabulated yesterday in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S war poll, continued to record the 3 to 1 noninterventionist sentiment manifested in returns from 19 other wards, which were published yesterday morning.

To establish the conviction of Illinois citizens on the war issue, the poll is querying every 10th registered voter both in Chicago and the nine downstate cities which have election boards. Post card ballots have been sent to a total of 257,484 voters, carrying this question:

"Shall the United States Enter the War to Help Britain Defeat Hitler?"

Last night a total of 4,238 returns had been received, with these results:

Yes: 957, or 22.58 per cent.
No: 3,246, or 76.59 per cent.
Spoiled or unmarked ballots totaled 35, or .83 of 1 per cent.

A poll of New York state on the same question, conducted by the New York News, showed 32.3 per cent for war and 67.7 per cent for peace last night. [Details on page 4.]

Last Ballots Sent to Voters.

In the 20 new wards alone, the percentage for war was 24.69, and against war, 75.31, altho the total ballots received to date from these subdivisions of the city reached only 247. First returns remain to be received from 11 wards. Their ballots were mailed out a little later than the others, but all ballots—both to Chicago and downstate—had been mailed last night.

Ward.	Yes.	No.	Ward.	Yes.	No.
1	6	13	27	9	10
5	13	33	31	6	10
9	0	4	32	1	6

20	0	4	44	3	7
21	4	9
23	5	15	Total	61	186

More Votes from 19 Wards.

Second day results for the 19 wards first recorded in yesterday's paper are contained in a second table, as follows:

Ward.	Yes.	No.	Ward.	Yes.	No.
2	40	77	24	28	18
3	49	77	25	8	71
4	67	138	26	22	56

15	5	23
17	26	151	Total	534	1,770
22	29	49

Only 24th Ward for War.

The only city ward casting a majority for entrance into the war is the 24th, long a Democratic stronghold presided over by former Ald. J. M. Arvey, now a major serving with the army at Camp Forrest, Tenn.

In yesterday's story, due to an error, the 22d ward was shown to have cast 79 votes for entry and 43 against. The "Yes" vote actually was 29, an error of 50 votes.

The downstate cities included in THE TRIBUNE'S poll are Cairo, Bloomington, Springfield, Rockford, Aurora, Peoria, East St. Louis, Danville, and Galesburg. A total of 227,484 ballots was mailed to Chicago and Cook county voters, and 30,000 downstate.

The poll is copyrighted, and THE TRIBUNE has the exclusive right to publish the results.

BRITAIN TO NAME TANKS FOR THOSE WHO BUY THEM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—The British supply ministry, it was announced today, has decided that tanks may go into action in the future bearing the names of the people who have provided the cash to buy them.

Any one contributing $20,000 to the "speed the tanks" fund can have his or her name, or an approved nom de plume, on a light tank. For $40,000 the name will be inscribed on a cruiser tank, for $60,000 on a medium tank, and for $80,000 on one of the heaviest types.

U. S. COMMUNISTS DO A TURNABOUT; BLAST LINDBERGH

New York, July 3 [Special].—The communist leadership in the United States today officially declared war against Charles A. Lindbergh, with whom they had agreed in a policy of keeping this country out of war until the German invasion of Russia.

PLAN TO EXTEND DRAFTEES' USE ROUSES CAPITAL

Power to Lengthen Service Sought.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—A war department proposal to remove legal restrictions from the use of draftees and National Guard troops and reserve officers on active duty, so they could be retained in service for more than one year and employed anywhere in the world, met overwhelming congressional opposition today.

Gen. Marshall.

Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, made the recommendations in a report to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson. Informed members of congress predicted defeat for the proposal when and if it is submitted to congress in legislative form.

Tells Plans for Iceland.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], leader of the noninterventionists, said he was reliably informed that the administration wishes to send troops to Iceland about July 23 to relieve British forces now in control of the island and to convert it into a naval and air base to protect British Atlantic shipping.

Iceland is just beyond the commonly accepted eastern limit of the western hemisphere and hence falls under the restrictions in existing law which limit the use of National Guard troops and draftees to the western hemisphere, except in United States territories and possessions, including the Philippines.

Senator Wheeler said he understood that Iceland, if occupied by American forces, would be used as a transshipping base for British war munitions, with American air and naval forces convoying ships to Iceland and patroling them from Iceland to England by long range bombing planes.

Linked with Knox Demand.

Many members of congress associated the proposal to remove legal restrictions on the use of American troops with the demand of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox for immediate naval action to clear the Atlantic of German war craft.

Gen. Marshall's proposal to authorize retention of the National Guard troops and draftees for more than one year, the limit of their service under existing law, was opposed in congress on the ground that it would constitute a breach of faith with the men. His proposal to remove the ban on using the troops outside the western hemisphere was assailed as a scheme to permit the President to wage undeclared wars anywhere in the world.

Only a handful of the most belligerent interventionists expressed approval of the proposal.

Opposition Already Foreseen.

The opposition was not unexpected, as previous intimations that such a recommendation was imminent had caused an explosion in congress. Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], hitherto an undeviating supporter of the administration's foreign policy, told the house last Saturday that "if anybody has a notion in his head, either in the war department or in any other department, that they can come up to this congress and get any sort of declaration that will put us aggressively into the European war or that will send American expeditionary forces abroad, I think the sooner they get the idea out of their heads the better it will be."

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.] revealed that the war department proposals were "made to me last week in the form of a letter which requested a conference with military officials." He added that no such conference has been held and refused to comment on the proposals until one is held.

New Dealers Voice Disapproval.

Many New Deal yes-men expressed opposition to the Marshall proposals. Among them were Senator H. H. Schwartz [D., Wyo.], who voiced the belief that "the present emergency is not sufficient" to justify keeping the men in service for more than one year, and Representative R. Ewing Thomason [D., Tex.], who said congress might as well declare war as to authorize sending the men outside the western hemisphere."

Gen. Marshall's proposals produced some confusion as to the administration's real purposes because of President Roosevelt's statement only Tuesday that the full complement of draftees permitted by law would be called up in the present fiscal year. The draft law provides that not more than 900,000 men inducted under the act shall be in training at any one time. Obviously, if 900,000 new draftees should be called up in the current fiscal year, all those now in service would have to be released.

Number Not Estimated.

The Marshall report did not indicate how many draftees now in training would be retained in service for more than one year if congress should amend the conscription act. However, Gen. Marshall testified before the senate military appropriations subcommittee on June 18—in support of the 10 billion dollar war department appropriation bill—that additional estimates were being prepared to increase the strength of the army from 1,418,000 to 1,725,000 men. He testified also that estimates were being prepared for additional equipment sufficient to supply a force of 3 million men. It is reported that these additional estimates will aggregate 5 billion dollars.

War department spokesmen asserted that restrictions on the use of draftees, National Guard troops, and reserve officers operate to prevent the sending of regular army troops outside the western hemisphere because existing army units combine the regular with the temporary personnel.

Changing Problem Cited.

Referring to statutory restrictions forbidding the use of troops outside the western hemisphere, Gen. Marshall's report said:

"The material phase of our task is generally understood. The personnel phase is not, and it is here that legal limitations, acceptable at the time of their passage, now hamstring the development of the army into a force immediately available for whatever defensive measures may be necessary."

Recommending that the legal restrictions be removed "without delay," the report continued:

"Events of the last two months are convincing proof of the terrific striking power possessed by a nation administered purely on a military basis.

"Events of the last few days are even more forcible indications of the suddenness with which armed conflict can spread to areas hitherto considered free from attack."

Discusses Training Phase.

Referring to the training program and the desire to extend the period of service beyond the one year limitation, the report said:

"It is the purpose of the war department to proceed with the military training of the annual increments of selectees, replacing those now in active service as soon as the situation permits, especially the older men. In general, the same intention pertains to the reserve officers whom we wish gradually to replace with others who have not yet been brought into active service. However, a fixed rule cannot be applied at this time, in our opinion. Some are in Hawaii, some in the Aleutian Islands, others in units to be dispatched to overseas bases, and still others are in organizations to be trained as task forces for possible special operations."

ARREST WASTERS OF OIL, EAST IS URGED BY ICKES

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—A campaign of compulsory gasoline saving, under which "jackrabbit" motorists would be arrested, was projected today by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in a move to meet a predicted oil scarcity in eastern states.

Ickes, who is also defense petroleum coördinator, told his press conference he would call upon city and state officers of the Atlantic seaboard to arrest persons who start their cars with a leap or whose motors are so badly adjusted as to waste fuel in the form of fumes.

Ickes said an "oil burner" car could be recognized easily by the smoke and fumes from the exhaust pipe. He said persons driving such cars and making fast starts would be arrested in national parks thruout the country, commenting that he saw no justification for waste anywhere.

CONGRESS GETS BILL EXTENDING MARITIME POWER

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—A bill giving the Maritime commission sweeping new powers over the American merchant marine moved close to final passage today when a conference committee report on it was laid before congress.

The bill, as passed by both houses, would give the commission persuasive authority to control the movement, routes, services, and cargo of merchant vessels in the interest of preparedness.

The commission would be authorized to issue warrants to United States vessels and any foreign flag vessels applying for them, which would give the vessels prior rights in the use of loading, unloading, drydocking, lighterage, and other harbor facilities. In return for such warrants, the owners of the vessels would be obligated to abide by the commission's demands on their services.

FIND ARMY FULL OF OLD OFFICERS WITH OLD IDEAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—A survey today of the ages of army officers of all ranks brought confirmation of the belief held by many military experts that the land forces of the United States are cluttered up with older officers who obstruct military progress by clinging to outmoded tactical theories.

Some rather amazing disclosures came from the study. Colonels, for example, are supposed to be combat officers, capable of leading their regiments in actual warfare. Yet the average age of colonels is 56 years. There are 156 colonels in the regular army between the ages of 60 and 64, the latter being the retirement age. Of the 699 colonels in the army only 3 are under 50 and each is 49 years old.

Generals Are Over 60.

The average age of an American army major general is 60 years, 11 months. Of the 21 major generals, 16 are 60 years of age and over; 4 are 59 years old and one is 57 years old.

Brigadier generals, of whom there are 45, have an average age of 56 years, 8 months.

In the Officers' Reserve corps the situation is similar. The average age of the 626 colonels is 55 years, 2 months. The average for lieutenant colonels is 52 years, 8 months. Majors have an average age of 47 years, 11 months; the average captain is 40 years, 2 months.

The average ages of National Guard officers were not available. It was noted, however, that the majority of the officers of general rank were over 55 years of age, and most of the colonels were over 50. There is one captain in the National Guard who is 63 years old.

Valuable at Desk Jobs.

Asked to comment upon these high age averages, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, insisted that such averages were sometimes deceiving. In the case of colonels near the 60 year mark, he said, it was obvious that they were not fit for combat duty, but they could be highly valuable at desk jobs.

The following table shows the ages of officers in the regular army as of Jan. 1, 1940:

Average Age of U. S. Army Officers

BRITISH RAIDERS AIM HEAVY BLOWS AT NORTH FRANCE

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—In two broad sweeps today the RAF attacked northern France during the daylight hours, the air ministry announced. Bombers, with heavy fighter protection, attacked the railways in the Haebrouck-Saint Omer area. One British bomber and seven fighters were acknowledged lost, but the RAF said 11 German planes were shot down. [The Germans put the score at 11 British planes shot down, two German planes missing.]

While these raiders flew across the channel thruout the day in a sky almost cloudless, the RAF disclosed that Pilot Officer William Isaac Hall of the American Eagle squadron was missing from Wednesday's forays, in which the squadron bagged three German planes. Hall, 25 years old, was a native of Springfield, Vt.

The magazine Aeroplane, which is Britain's nonofficial authority on military aviation, hinted that the air attacks on France may be an overture to an attempt to seize a continental foothold by invasion before Aug. 1.

DENMARK ASKS U. S. TO REMOVE CONSULAR STAFF

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The Danish government today requested the United States to withdraw all American consuls in Denmark by July 15.

The Nazi-dominated government's request, which was confirmed by the state department after German reports had reached this country, was in conformity with similar action already taken by Germany, Italy, occupied France, Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxemburg, Jugo-Slavia, and Greece.

Three American consular officers are now assigned to Copenhagen and officials said they probably would proceed to Lisbon immediately and return to the United States on an American vessel. Two Chicago women, Misses Catherine Anderson and Maggie Carlson, clerks in the Copenhagen consulate, also will return.

SINK 768,950 TONS OF BRITISH SHIPS IN JUNE—BERLIN

BERLIN, July 3 (AP).—Germany laid claim today to the sinking of a total of 768,950 tons of British supply shipping by sea and air attack during June. Submarines alone destroyed 417,450 tons of merchant shipping, the high command said.

It added that unstated additional losses were inflicted by mines and many ships also were "so badly damaged they either have been completely lost or will be unusable for a long period."

In the assault on Britain's commerce lanes and harbors last night, the high command said, the luftwafe sank a 5,000 ton merchantman.

[In April, 1917, the month of greatest loss of British, allied, and neutral shipping in the World war, 852,000 tons were sunk in the "unrestricted" submarine campaign.]

BRIDE TO STAND BY DRAFT REGISTRANT WHO BECAME WOMAN

Los Angeles, Cal., July 3 (AP).—Edward P. Richards, 29 years old, a draft registrant, who asks legal permission to change his name to Barbara Ann because his sex has changed, disclosed today that he and Miss Lorraine Wilcox, 32, were married last November.

Dressed in contrasting frocks, the two received reporters in their apartment and told how they fell in love, of their elopement, and of their decision to remain living together after Richards' changing physical characteristics became known to his bride.

"Well," said Miss Wilcox, "you can understand that I was shocked at the discovery I made soon after we were married. But instead of anger, it was sympathy that I felt. We talked things over. Edward became Barbara. And she—I never again could think of her as 'him'—began to wear women's clothing, very becomingly, too."

PICK GEN. HARMS TO COMMAND IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Henry W. Harms, of the air corps, was assigned by the war department today to command the outpost in Newfoundland.

Gen. Harms, now on duty in the office of the chief of staff here, will sail from New York July 16 for St. John's to assume his duties. He succeeds Col. Maurice D. Welty, infantry. The war department said the assignment was "indicative of the emphasis being placed on Newfoundland as an outpost of the air defense of the United States."

Gen. Harms, was graduated from West Point in 1912 and saw service in France during the World war.

ILLINOIS CITIES ARE URGED TO AID ALUMINUM DRIVE

Officials of the Illinois State Council of Defense yesterday telegraphed the mayors or presidents of more than 100 cities and towns in Illinois, asking them to coöperate in the nation-wide campaign to collect old aluminum for defense purposes. The telegram drive was announced by Murray M. Baker, vice chairman of the council. In the telegrams the council authorities asked the heads of the various towns and cities to organize prominent citizens and civic organizations to provide a city-wide canvass for old aluminum. The establishment of collection bins thruout the city also was suggested.

REVEAL BRITISH AID NEEDLESSLY HARMS AIR LINES

Planes Taken While Army Has Others Available.

A survey made by THE TRIBUNE disclosed yesterday that there are at least a dozen transport airplanes operated for the army, navy, or civilian governmental departments and fully 180 obsolescent bombers in the possession of the air corps that could be turned over to Britain instead of the commercial air line transports that have been drafted since mid-May for British uses. Commandeering of the air line planes is interfering with important national air passenger and mail services.

Up to this time the air line operators have taken 18 planes out of service, and by Aug. 1 another 24 planes must be delivered to governmental officials who will turn them over to Britain. Furthermore, the air lines have relinquished rights to an additional 91 planes ordered from west coast factories. Some of these have been completed and delivered directly to the British.

Air Line Expansions Blocked.

These sacrifices have prevented large scale expansions of service planned by the air lines for this year and already have caused cancellation of two daily trips between Chicago and Boston, Mass. By Aug. 1 there will be other cancellations of service because operators who must give up planes will not be able to continue schedules they now are flying on a number of different routes.

While the air lines are suffering serious losses of revenue and the nation a loss of transport services the army and navy are operating not less than eight Douglas DC-3 transports as flying flagships for various admirals and air corps generals. These ships could easily be spared and the navy and army officers could use tactical airplanes for their transportation.

Furthermore, the Civil Aeronautics authority and the Civil Aeronautics board have several bi-motored planes that could be given to England. One of these is a new Douglas DC-3 air liner, exactly like the planes the air lines must deliver. Another is a Lockheed 12, a smaller but faster transport, and a third is a Boeing 247-D air liner that is ideal for transport work. Several other government agencies also have similar airplanes.

Smaller Ships Plentiful.

None of these planes is required for any work that cannot be done by smaller, single motored ships still available in large numbers.

The obsolescent bombers are Douglas B-18s. These are the bomber version of the DC-3 air liner, obviously ideal for emergency transport uses. The B-18s are far too slow for any combat service—cruising at 190 miles an hour, with a top speed of 220. They are scattered over the United States, the Canal Zone, Hawaii, and the Philippines, and are used for crew training and transportation.

These bombers would not be missed by the air corps, which has a dozen later types now in delivery. They would fit well into the British scheme to use the airplanes now being gathered for troop and supply transport in Egypt and the near east where important developments are expected soon.

HOTEL CLERK MISSING.

Chicago avenue police were asked yesterday to search for Thomas Gillingham of 1945 Lincoln avenue, a desk clerk at the 14 West Elm Apartment hotel. John Lyle, manager of the hotel, said $480 was missing from the hotel safe after Gillingham left the job.

ARMY TRIES OUT LIGHT BARRAGES TO FOOL FLYERS

Tests Reveal the Glare Obscures Ground.

Cleveland, O., July 3 (AP).—The army is experimenting with "barrages" of light to screen military objectives from night bombers.

Capt. Warren S. Everett of the army engineers corp at Fort Belvoir, Va., reported tonight tests conducted at Cleveland's eastern limits indicated the glare from intense lights makes the ground obscure to flyers overhead.

Thus, he said, the opposite conditions from a blackout serve the same purpose and eliminate the danger of accidents in total darkness.

Sees Much to Be Done.

In flights over a small area surrounded with ordinary incandescent lights, "not even a long viewing tube penetrated the glare," Capt. Everett declared.

"Success of the tests indicate there is much to be done along this line," he added. "Barrages of light would be especially useful in moonlight, which reveals rivers and lakes and thereby helps the pilot get his directions.

The army, in collaboration with General Electric company, at the same time experimented with "black light" to guide traffic while preserving blackout effects from the air.

Test in Blackout Area.

This test, conducted in a blacked out area two miles square, involved the use of roadside reflectors—squares of carboard or tin covered with a fluorescent or phosphorescent substance. Glass covers filtering out all but the "black light"—the ultraviolet rays—were fitted over the headlights of automobiles cruising on the dark highways.

The ultraviolet rays activated the fluorescent reflectors, making them glow and outlining the roads. Capt. Everett said this development would permit movement of military equipment and civilian traffic during blackouts as the glow from headlights and reflectors was not visible from any altitude in the air.

U. S. Daylight Saving Bill Is Introduced in Senate

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Senator Joseph F. Guffey [D., Pa.] introduced today a bill to reënact the World war daylight saving time law. The measure called for the advance of the time one hour between the last Sunday in March and the last Sunday in October.

SPEEDY DIVISION OF 'TANK KILLERS' FORMED BY ARMY

Motorized Unit Is Recast with Greater Fire Power.

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The army, seeking new ways to combat mechanized forces, created today a fast new experimental division bristling with "tank killers" and other special weapons.

At the same time the war department announced formation of 22 heavily armed anti-tank battalions.

The new experimental division, described as a radical cross between the army's existing armored and triangular divisions, is being created by recasting the present motorized 4th division at Fort Benning, Ga.

Fire Power Increased.

Increasing its fire power by approximately half is expected to make the new unit possibly the hardest hitting in any army aside from fully mechanized armored divisions.

In addition to 75 mm. Howitzers on self-propelled, track laying mounts—the counterpart of mobile tank detroyers improvised by the German army—the new division is to have 106 medium and light tanks of its own, and 36 versatile bantam cars.

Conventional anti-tank guns are to be substantially increased in number.

In man power the new division was ordered trimmed from 15,500 to 14,000 troops, but the present force of 600 officers will be retained.

Face Test in War Games.

"All the potentialities of the new outfit—mobility, punch, fire power, anti-aircraft, and anti-tank defenses—will be explored to the utmost" in war games in the Carolinas Nov. 3-30, the war department said.

Some weapons will be missing then, but a sufficient number should be available for test purposes, it was predicted.

The new anti-tank battalions will be formed largely by employing troops and weapons now a part of field artillery organizations. They will be armed with 75 mm. guns as well as the 37 mm. weapons which the army has found to be of dubious effectiveness against heavy tanks.

Fourteen battalions, ranging in size from 275 to 475 officers and men, will be attached to infantry divisions.

An Open Letter to the Folks Back Home

Camp Democracy, U. S. A.

Dear Mom:—

A very interesting thing happened a short while ago that I am sure you would like to know about . . .

A personal representative of Wieboldt's Department Stores from Chicago visited our camp and talked with many of our boys, including myself, to find out just what we would like best to have when our friends and relatives send us gifts from home.

Naturally, the boys here "jumped at the chance" to give such information. We felt that it would benefit us and you folks at the same time. After all, it makes buying easier when you know just what we want and need.

This Wieboldt representative told us that this specific data would be carefully compiled and reviewed, and then for your convenience Wieboldt's would prepare different package combinations ranging in price from 99c to $12 . . . containing our wants and many other fine suggestions. I understood that these gifts would be on display in all Wieboldt Men's Furnishing Departments—and as an added convenience Wieboldt's will pay delivery charge on any package up to 2 lbs.

Since that day several fellows have received these gift packages, and were they pleased . . . everything they wanted was in the box and then some! They are most envied fellows in camp!

So if you are planning to send me anything in the near future, please stop in at the nearest Wieboldt store and see their selection . . . after all, they have first hand information as to our desires and, therefore, they must know.

Best Regards and Love to All

John

GERMANS HURLED BACK WITH HEAVY LOSSES: MOSCOW

MOSCOW, July 4 [Friday] (AP).—Red troops fighting a vast battle on the banks of the Berezina river east of Minsk on the path to Moscow threw back a rising tide of Nazi soldiers and inflicted heavy losses on them, a soviet communique announced today. Soviet troops counter-charged with bayonets, the communique said. Thousands of Germans were killed in the attempt to cross the river.

[The Russians implied that the attempt had failed, but did not specifically say the river had not been crossed. The Germans claimed the crossing on Wednesday and other reports have put them far beyond the Berezina on the road to Moscow.]

The Germans threw lines of tanks into the vital battle of the Berezina at Borizov, 50 miles northeast of Minsk and about 375 miles from Moscow. It was at Borizov in November, 1812, that Napoleon's grand army bled to death in retreat.

Battles on Ukraine Soil.

Fighting also raged at Bobruisk, 80 miles southeast of Minsk on the Berezina, where Red troops "have blunted" the Nazi drive for several days.

In the Ukraine, 300 miles to the south of this front, German troops advancing toward Shepetovka, 20 miles within the Ukraine on the road to Kiev, suffered heavy losses. When blocked, this column turned south in an effort to break thru toward Tarnopol, 30 miles west of the old soviet border within former Poland.

[Reports to newspapers in Sweden said German troops had reached Lubar, about 35 miles farther than Shepetovka and about 125 miles west of Kiev. Another German column was reported sweeping down from the northwest.]

Cross River in Latvia.

In the north in Latvia, German troops forced the Dvina river and engaged Red troops in a violent battle near Jekabpils, halfway between Dvinsk and Riga, the Latvian capital. The Germans succeeded in crossing the Dvina only after bringing up fresh forces, and Red troops engaged them along new lines near Jekabpils.

[The Tribune's correspondent, Donald Day, reported on Wednesday from Helsingfors that the Germans had pushed far beyond the Dvina and were attacking Pskov, Russia, near the Estonian soviet border at the southern end of Lake Peipus.]

Thruout Thursday soviet war planes hammered German motorized units at the river crossing on the Dvina and also at Bobruisk and Tarnopol. It was declared 61 German planes were shot down on Wednesday against 28 Russian craft lost.

[The Germans claimed 52 Russian planes were shot down on Wednesday in the Bialystok area alone and an additional 97 planes were destroyed on the ground. Bialystok is southwest of Minsk.]

Rally a "People's Army."

Behind the fronts, back in the cities and villages, volunteer "peoples' armies" sprang up to defend the vast Russian homeland as their obscure ancestors had done against Napoleon.

Thousands of civilians rose in arms in response to the appeal of Josef Stalin, who ordered them to sear and lay bare the limitless countryside with fire and dynamite if the Nazis make a general break thru.

Stalin had told the people that there was "grave danger."

STALIN TALK SIGN OF NERVOUSNESS, GERMANS ASSERT

New York, July 3 [Special].—The German radio, commenting today on Josef Stalin's address earlier in the day, said:

"The speech of the Russian dictator has a striking resemblance to a speech of the French Premier [Paul] Reynaud when the German forces had broken thru the Maginot line....

Bermudans Warned to Use Less Water as Drouth Stays

HAMILTON, Bermuda, July 3.—With no relief from the sustained drouth in sight, an official statement issued today cautioned the public to be "extremely careful" in the use of water. The water shortage is a perennial problem, but lack of shipping this year to bring in water from the United States has accentuated the situation.

FARMER KILLED BY TRACTOR.

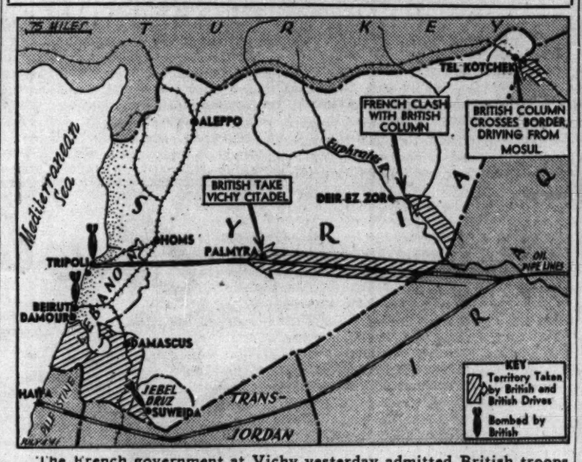
Britain Gains in Syria



The French government at Vichy yesterday admitted British troops had taken Palmyra, French stronghold in Syria. Captions show other developments.

CALL SYRIA WAR BRITISH DRIVE TO PROTECT OIL LINE

Safety of Supply Key to Control in Africa.

The safeguarding of the pipe lines which carry oil from the rich fields of Iraq to the British fleet in the Mediterranean evidently is the principal reason for the fight now being waged by the British and the "Free French" against the Vichy forces in Syria. If Germany and Italy, thru agreement with Vichy, were able to dominate Syria, they would have a western back door to Iraq and further threaten Britain's position in Africa and the middle east.

The pipelines from the Iraq oil fields have their western terminals in Haifa, Palestine, and Tripoli, Lebanon. The route of one of the lines is directly across Syria, the other thru Iraq, Transjordan, and Palestine.

Agricultural Area.

The British charged that Nazis had been moving into Syria and that if Germany occcupied the country the Mediterranean fleet might be left stranded, with the consequent danger to the Suez canal and the Alexandria naval base intensified. The "Free French," in entering Syria, declared they were there "to drive out the forces of Hitler."

Syria, an essentially agricultural area, is bounded on the west by the Mediterranean, the south by Palestine and Transjordan, the east by Iraq, and the north by Turkey. The country's industry is inconsequential and it has no products particularly needed by the British.

Only about 10 per cent of its 57,900 square miles is tillable without extensive irrigation, this area being mostly along the Mediterranean coast line. Most of the farmers raise grain crops. Tobacco is an important crop and recently there has been development of cotton. Cattle and camel raising are also important.

Has Good Roads.

Syria produces few minerals altho more might be found if the country were sufficiently exploited. Little oil has been found. Communications are good, however, the region being well provided with railways and motor roads. It is imperative to the British to keep these routes away from the Germans.

Syria is administered by France under a league of nations mandate. Vichy maintains a high commissioner in the country despite the terms of the 1936 treaty of friendship and alliance which substituted Syrian autonomy for the French mandate [pending acceptance of the treaty by France].

On entering Syria, Gen. Georges Catroux, aid to Gen. Charles De Gaulle, head of the "Free French," proclaimed himself the liberator of the Syrians. He offered independence in the name of "Free France."

Palmyra Falls

VICHY, France, July 3 (AP).—Palmyra, the Vichy citadel in the heart of Syria, fell today to a British tank led assault after 13 days of staunch resistance. The British entered the city at 1 a. m. after an artillery pounding, the French acknowledged.

Palmyra lies 150 miles inside Syria from the point where the Euphrates river enters Iraq, and presumably it was taken by forces moving across the desert from that country. It was also reported that another motorized British column, coming along the right bank of the Euphrates, had met Vichy troops southeast of Deir-ez-Zor and that a third motorized column from Iraq had crossed the Syrian border at Tel Kotchek and was trying to advance along the rail line from Mosul, toward the Turkish frontier.

On the coast 12 miles below Beirut, the Vichy positions around Damour were shelled by the British fleet, and a French submarine was sunk somewhere in that general area. Beirut itself was bombed again.

[British headquarters in Cairo reported air attacks on shipping at Beirut, a fort and barracks at Suweida, an airdrome at Nasrulla, the coastal road near Homs, and flying boats in the harbor at Tripoli in the last 24 hours of warfare over Syria and Lebanon.]

BRITISH WARNED GERMAN RADIO IN DUBLIN IS PERIL

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—The government was warned in commons today that "the transmitting station of the German legation in Dublin gives direct communication to Berlin." A cabinet spokesman gave assurance that "all practicable steps" had been taken to prevent leakage of information about British troop dispositions in northern Ireland.

Sir William Henry Davison, Conservative, called attention to the German radio channel and Emanuel Shinwell, Laborite, suggested that the German legation's diplomatic bags provided another leakage. Since Ireland is neutral, Germany has maintained a diplomatic staff in Dublin.

Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, replied that it would be "contrary to the public interest to make any statement as to various measures taken to control the sending of information out of the British Isles but you can accept my assurance that all possibilities have been borne in mind."

Lady Duff-Cooper Collects Swill for Pigs—and Is Fined

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Lady Diana Duff-Cooper, wife of Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information, was fined $5 today at Bognor Regis, Sussex, for parking her car on the wrong side of the road and, driving without a license. She said she was unable to park properly because she couldn't back up with the trailer in which she was "collecting swill for pigs." She is the former actress, Lady Diana Manners.

RUSSIA CALLS IN ESTONIAN CATTLE, CORN, MACHINERY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 3 (AP).—A proclamation in Russian on the Tallinn radio tonight ordered all cattle, corn, and machinery in Estonia shipped to Russia immediately. The public was ordered to assist in the loading. Destruction of any goods was forbidden, but it was said anything which could not be removed would be burned. This apparently follows Russian Premier Josef Stalin's announced "scorched earth" policy in combating the Germans.

Vimy Ridge War Memorial in France Is Reported Safe

LONDON, July 3.—The Canadian memorial on Vimy ridge, France, which had been reported damaged in the German invasion, still stands. A young Canadian pilot from Saskatchewan, returning from a flight over northern France, said he saw the memorial from a height of 10,000 feet, and that it appeared to be undamaged.

BRITISH CENSOR LOSES FIGHT ON MILITARY CURB

Armed Forces Retain Final Word on Releases.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—The ministry of information today lost its battle to exercise full censorship judgment on what war news is to be released. That prerogative, it has been decided, will continue to be exercised by the fighting services and the foreign office.

Sir John Anderson.

This announcement, made by the lord president of the council, Sir John Anderson, was protested by speakers in the house of commons. Nor were they mollified by the promise that higher service officials will be stationed in the ministry of information empowered to pass on all news concerning their departments except that of most vital importance.

"End or Mend" Ministry Is Plea.

Robert H. Bernays, Liberal Nationalist, described the ministry of information as "a brontosaurus" [a huge prehistoric reptile].

"The mountain has been in labor but has scarcely produced a mouse," he said in demanding that the ministry of information be either "ended or mended."

Alfred Duff Cooper, minister of information, who is rumored to have offered to resign over criticism of his ministry, wound up the debate. He seemed satisfied with his present authority and his speech was concerned mostly with propaganda, which, he said, aimed at two messages, "First, that our cause is just; another, that we are bound to win."

Duff Cooper compared his success in propagandizing the United States with that of Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, saying, "Every month, every week, and every day in the last 12 months German shares have fallen in America and British shares have gone up." In recent months, he said, Britain "has increased the amount of propaganda work we are doing in the United States."

Consider Trade Union Drive.

He said the possibilities of exploiting the trade union movement in the United States were being explored.

Duff Cooper referred to the "conflicting attitudes" of Charles A. Lindbergh and Senator Arthur Vandenberg, the flyer saying it would do no good to help Great Britain because she is defeated already, and the senator declaring that there is no need to convoy ships because losses are slight."

America, he argued, should be told truthfully "that the position is still very serious, but slowly improving."

Pueblo, Colo., July 3 [Special].—Pre-holiday celebrants had only to step to their doors today to get all the ice cubes they needed for refreshing drinks. A 20 minute storm bombarded Pueblo with hail stones as big as eggs, many of which were gathered in pans and placed in refrigerators.

THE CLEAR FACTS

In a speech to the nations of the western hemisphere on Oct. 12, 1940, President Roosevelt said:

"The clear facts have been stated over and over again. This country wants no war with any nation. This hemisphere wants no war with any nation. The American republics are determined to work in unity for peace just as we work in unity to defend ourselves from attack.

"We arm to defend ourselves. The strongest reason for this is that it is the strongest guarantee for peace."

PREDICT CRISIS IN NAZI-RED WAR WITHIN 48 HOURS

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—The gravity of the Russian situation was suggested by the observation of informed military quarters in London today that Russia could lose the war or lay the foundation for possible eventual German defeat in the next 48 hours.

If the Germans are given time to consolidate their gains and launch more intensive drives on Leningrad, Kiev and Moscow the soviet will lose "these cities within a week and maybe less," these sources said.

The Russians, however, have a "long ehance," and this would be to attack the spearheads of the German offensives immediately with every tank and airplane at hand, it was added.

BRITAIN RATIONS COAL; SETS LIMIT OF 1 TON A MONTH

Calls for Diversion of Fuel to Vital Industries.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—Coal rationing will be enforced thruout the country starting tomorrow, it was announced tonight. Private homes, apartments, hotels, clubs, and institutions will be limited to a maximum of 1 ton a month in order to divert coal to vital industries. No nonindustrial consumer will be permitted to accumulate more than 2 tons of coal and 1 ton of coke. Penalty for evasion of the restrictions by consumers or merchants was set at three months in jail or a fine of 100 pounds [about $400].

Along with coal rationing, the government has appealed to consumers to exercise rigid economy in the use of other forms of fuel, gas, and electricity.

Aroused by Shortage.

Britain has been aroused for some time over the shortage of coal. Government officials have put the blame on transportation difficulties due to priorities given war necessities and have sought to reorganize the industry to step up production. Vacations for miners also have added to the shortage, it is claimed. Despite appeals that the mines be kept going full time, 12,000 miners from Lancashire and Doncaster will cease work tomorrow for a week's holiday.

W. G. Nott-Bower, deputy undersecretary for the minister of mines, announcing the government's decision, admitted that the shortage of coal production causes anxiety.

"One ton monthly is the maximum figure," he said. "We cannot guarantee that even that amount will be available. Supplies, however, will be distributed as equitably as possible."

Food problems also confront Britain. Strawberries and tomatoes have almost completely disappeared since prices have been controled.

Seek to Halt Food Lines.

Altho Food Minister Lord Woolton announced that the rationing system has proved effective in eliminating the long lines of persons waiting hours outside shops for supplies, such as were experienced in the last year, reports from various parts of the country show that the queue system is on the increase. Shopkeepers themselves are being blamed for the queues since, it is stated, they tip off their customers when supplies of scarce goods are expected.

In support of Lord Woolton's plea that the queues should be discouraged, some shopkeepers have posted notices to the effect that the first 12 persons in line will not be served.

Thousands of Russians Rounded Up, Says France

VICHY, France, July 3 (AP).—The ministry of interior announced today that "thousands" of Russians have been rounded up for questioning by "sifting commissions" in each department since Vichy broke off diplomatic relations with Russia last Saturday.

4,200 ITALIAN TROOPS IN ETHIOPIA TO GIVE UP, BRITISH ASSERT

CAIRO, Egypt, July 3 (AP).—The Italian commander at Debra Tabor, one of the last strongholds of Italian resistance in northwest Ethiopia, has agreed to surrender with about 4,200 men, the British middle east headquarters said today.

Arrow Shows Where Italians May Surrender.

It said the terms were the same as those imposed on the duke of Aosta, viceroy of Ethiopia, when he capitulated May 19, at Amba Alaji and was compelled to surrender all his men and equipment except officers' small arms.

The force at Debra Tabor was said to number about 3,000 Italians and 1,200 African troops.

SUSPECT FINNISH VESSEL IS FIRED BY SABOTEURS

New York, July 3 [Special].—Saboteurs were suspected today of having started a fire in the hold of the Finnish freighter Panda, tied up at an East river pier and loaded with a cargo which included 400 tons of gasoline and lubricating oils.

The fire was discovered by Hugo Carlson, chief officer. Half the gasoline and oil was removed, but the fire still was burning, and for the sake of safety it was decided to tow the Panda out into lower New York bay, removing the hazard from shipping lanes.

The work of towing the vessel was started, but later fire officials decided there was no danger involved and she was brought back to the pier. Police said they suspected sabotage and it was reported that the FBI was investigating the blaze.

WILLKIE INSISTS NAVY WILL SEE BRITISH GET AID

New York, July 3 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie declared tonight "I am quite sure that before long now the great force of the American navy will be brought into play to insure the delivery of supplies to Great Britain."

Willkie made the statement at the NBC studios in a recording which will be used tomorrow in a short-wave broadcast to the entire world. NBC released the speech immediately after it was recorded. The 15 minute address has been translated into Spanish, German, Italian, Portugese, and French for a broadcast commemorating Independence day.

PEACE IN PACIFIC AMERICA'S HOPE, JAPAN REMINDED

Notice to Avoid Spread of War Served by U. S.

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The United States in effect served notice on Japan today that this country would be vitally concerned by spread of the European war to the Pacific and expects the Tokio government to take no action detrimental to peace in that area.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, in answer to questions as to Japan's attitude toward the Russo-German conflict, said at a press conference that the United States government naturally hoped that the course to be pursued by Japan would make for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

Welles indicated that the United States had no official information on the policy just approved by a Japanese imperial conference. Tokio announced only that a course had been decided upon which would be kept a secret until disclosed by action.

Terms Situation Grave.

In addition to the official announcement, Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka stated that "a really grave state of emergency is developing before our eyes thruout the world, particularly in east Asia, with direct concern to our country."

With so little factual information available, Welles' statement was interpreted in informed quarters as a diplomatic reminder to Japan that the United States was vitally interested in preservation of peace in the Pacific.

Some students of far eastern affairs believed that adoption of a "secret policy" meant that Japan, for the present at least, would maintain neutrality.

Report Blockade Plans.

There were reports from Chinese sources, however, that Japan, in payment for axis recognition of the Japanese sponsored Wang Ching-wei government in Nanking, would blockade Vladivostok, the port thru which American goods and materials for Russia would pass.

Such a move might be a preliminary to invasion of Siberia, which would take the war within a few miles of Alaska, across Bering strait.

A Japanese move toward the Dutch East Indies or Singapore might be regarded by the United States as a direct threat to the Philippines as well as to the sources of much of this country's imports of rubber, tin, and other strategic materials.

3 SENATORS URGE ROOSEVELT MAKE A PLEA FOR PEACE

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Senators Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] and Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] today voiced the opinion that President Roosevelt's Independence day address to the nation would give him "an appropriate opportunity" for a plea for negotiated peace.

Senator Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio] expressed himself in favor of having Mr. Roosevelt explore peace possibilities, but thought this should be done without publicity.

The three senators, in separate statements, took the position that, thanks to the unexpected Russo-German conflict, the time was ripe for Great Britain to secure a favorable peace with the axis.

Administration officials repeatedly have stressed their conviction that a negotiated peace at this time would be equivalent to a Hitler-dictated peace.

MAINE PHYSICIAN GUILTY IN DEATH OF DOCTOR WIFE

Bath, Me., July 4 [Friday] (AP).—A Superior court jury early today convicted Dr. Merrill E. Joss, 34 years old, Richmond physician, of manslaughter in the slaying of his physician wife, Dr. Luverne Harris Joss, 38. Sentence, which could range from a fine to 20 years imprisonment, was deferred. The state alleged that Joss slew his wife so he could marry Mrs. Elizabeth C. Mayo, 35, tea room hostess.

Liner Coolidge Prepares to Join Army Transports

San Francisco, Cal., July 3 (AP).—The 8 million dollar liner President Coolidge, flagship of the American President Lines' fleet, docked today on its last trip as a passenger liner. After a shuttle trip to Los Angeles, the Coolidge will follow three other trans-Pacific liners—the Presidents Pierce, Taft, and Cleveland—into army transport service. Requisition of the Coolidge marks the end of American President Lines' orient service, for the present at least.

Soldier Held in Theft of Flood Control Maps

New London, Conn., July 3 [Special].—Frederick Bianche, 31 year old soldier stationed at Fort H. G. Wright on Fishers Island, N. Y., was arrested today following the theft of a packet containing war department maps of the Connecticut river flood control project. A patrolman reported he saw Bianche, in civilian clothes, take the packet from the automobile of John Chiapperini, a government photographer. Bianche said he had been drinking and did not recall taking the maps.

BRITISH KEEP U. S. CONNECTED WITH ALL WAR TALK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4 [Friday].—As an example of how every reference to the war being made here now connects the United States with it, The Daily Telegraph and News-Chronicle this morning, in editorializing on Dictator Stalin's speech, urge that America as well as Britain rush all possible aid to Russia. Newspapers no longer talk as if this were a British war. They invariably inject the United States between Britain and Russia.

The Daily Telegraph refers to Stalin's statement that Russia's defense of her freedom "is merged into the struggle of the people of Europe and America for their independent freedom," and says: "This full response to the prime minister's words—that the Russian danger is our danger—and to the United States government's declaration of readiness to help, ranges the forces in action. All that we and the United States can do is needed and needed at once."

Along the same lines, the News-Chronicle, dealing with British-American aid to Russia, says that "the outcome of the momentous struggle may turn eventually on the thoroness of that aid. We trust that plans for material assistance are going ahead full pressure."

FREEMAN TAKES BENTON HARBOR PERSONNEL JOB

William O. Freeman, former Evanston chief of police, has accepted a position as personnel director of the Dachel Carter Shipbuilding corporation, Benton Harbor, Mich., Gordon Clark, president and treasurer of the concern, announced yesterday.

Freeman, who headed the Evanston police force from 1927 until 1939, was renamed for his old position recently by Mayor S. G. Ingraham, but was rejected by the city council last month after a citizens' committee reported that, altho he was qualified for the job, slanderous talk would make his appointment unwise.

The shipbuilding company will more than double its present force of 45 workers within the next two weeks as work begins on the construction of two wooden minesweepers for the navy. Four more minesweepers are to be built by the company, and it is expanding its plant to handle construction of submarine chasers, Clark said. Among Freeman's duties will be that of guarding against sabotage and subversive activities in the plant.

11th of 33 Held as Spies by FBI Pleads Guilty

New York, July 3 (AP).—Erich Strunck, 31 years old, German born seaman, arrested in Milwaukee in the FBI roundup of 33 men and women suspected of espionage activities, pleaded guilty today before United States commissioner Martin C. Epstein to a charge of conspiring to engage in espionage activities against the United States. Strunck, a naturalized United States citizen, was the 11th to enter a guilty plea. He was held under $25,000 bail for grand jury action. A seaman on the liner Siboney which made stops at Lisbon, Portugal, Strunck was described by FBI agents as a courier for the alleged spy ring.

[Copyright: 1941: By the New York News.]

New York, July 3.—While a thundering 2 to 1 "no!" on the war issue still rolled in from the state as a whole, the volume of "yes" votes grew slightly for the second consecutive day in the New York News postcard poll today. Interventionists gained 4/5 of 1 per cent.

GOVERNORS OF 2 MIDWEST STATES FAVOR SEAWAY

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Republican Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Democratic Gov. John Moses of North Dakota concurred today in President Roosevelt's contention that a St. Lawrence seaway and power development was vital to defense and the economic welfare of the nation.

They advocated the program unqualifiedly before the house rivers and harbors committee considering legislation to authorize it.

John H. Ross, chairman of the executive committee of the New York State Waterways Association, Inc., testified that his organization was unalterably opposed to the seaway.

William D. Hassett, secretary to the President, said that he didn't suppose Mr. Roosevelt would have any comment on the recommendations until he had received and read the report. However, last week Hassett branded as "too silly for comment" a report that Secretary Stimson had made similar recommendations confidentially to congressional leaders.

MICHIGAN TOWN WILL BE POLLED ON PEACE ISSUE

Three Oaks, Mich., July 3 [Special].—A poll was begun today of the people living in and near this typical midwestern small town to determine their attitude toward the engrossing issue of whether the United States should enter the European war or stay out.

The poll will reach about 2,000 persons in this thriving town of 1,385 and its surrounding farmlands in the heart of the southeastern Michigan fruit belt.

Ballots will be distributed thru the mail to residents of Three Oaks and to all rural box holders. An addressed and stamped return will present the question: "Should the United States Enter the European War?" The answer requested is a simple "yes" or "no." To avoid any possible fear of criticism, the voter is not asked to sign the ballot.

A COP FLUSHES A PHEASANT ON STREET CORNER

Policeman Kenneth Crittendon of Sheffield avenue station flushed a pheasant suitable for mounting over the fireplace on the sidewalks of Chicago yesterday. The policeman saw a young man with a suspicious looking armful walking ahead of him at Clark street and Deming place and called upon him to halt. The young man ran and Crittendon fired five shots. When he reached an alley into which the fugitive had scurried, Crittendon found a preshot stuffed pheasant, two automobile robes, and a rear view mirror. He considers these his trickiest shots.

ARMY SPEEDS UP PILOT TRAINING AT SHREVEPORT

100 Graduated Every Five Weeks at Barksdale.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Shreveport, La., July 3.—Twenty-four hours a day the hangars of near-by Barksdale field hum with activity, and nightly the residents of Shreveport try to sleep to the roar of motors passing overhead.

Today the newest class of cadets was graduated upon completion of a 10 week course in multiengine pilot or bombardier training. Any day now the base expects to receive its first Lockheed-Hudson bombers which will be used to train 3,000 of the 8,000 royal air force pilots England is to send here for training.

Built in 1931 as headquarters for the 3d wing of the general headquarters air force, Barksdale formerly specialized in training pursuit pilots and navigators. These activities have been transferred to other bases, and Barksdale now is one of the army's new schools for multiengine training.

Train 'Fortress' Crews.

From here come crews to man the giant flying fortresses. Ten weeks each in primary and basic training, another 10 weeks at Barksdale, 10 hours of supplemental flying in the fortresses, and the army has another pilot ready to fly the air battleships.

Under its peacetime training program the army required a cadet to put in 500 hours with a co-pilot in twin engine flying before he took the craft up alone. Under the 1941 speed-up, the cadet, depending on individual skill, now solos after 20 hours as co-pilot.

Every five weeks, on a staggered schedule, a new class of nearly 100 cadets is graduated. The groups which finished in May, for example, spent 77 hours flying, an average of 1½ hours daily, 124 hours in ground school and 60 hours in military training. Two days were lost because of bad weather. All told, a cadet will have put in about 180 hours flying in primary, basic, and advanced training when he gets his wings.

From Barksdale the men are sent to tactical units, many of which are now in the Harrison islands or Alaska. The last class of pilots, however, was retained at Barksdale because of a shortage of instructors. There are now 48 instructors and 79 student instructors, which allows about three students to each instructor.

400 Cadets at Field.

At present at Barksdale there are 400 cadets and 2,800 enlisted men. Within a few days the base expects to receive the first of 1,500 draftees from all sections of the country. They will receive a four week recruit training and will then be detained at the base, sent to school, or transferred to tactical outfits for more training. Those who have the educational background may also take examinations for cadet training.

In progress now at Barksdale is a $1,750,000 construction and purchasing program. Barracks are being built, maintenance hangars being constructed, and maintenance equipment purchased. On a day and night schedule maintenance of the planes is an important problem.

12th Victim of Fire Aboard Cabin Cruiser Is Found

Harpswell, Me., July 3 (AP).—Casco bay today gave up the 12th body from the cabin cruiser Don Disaster, in which 35 excursionists apparently died in a fire. The body was identified as that of Miss Leila Sanders of Rumford, secretary to Paul Thurston, president of the Rumford Falls Trust company. Coast guards recovered it off Cape Elizabeth.

HENRY PERKINS, BOAT BUILDER, DIES.

Saugatuck, Mich., July 3 [Special].—Henry Perkins, 83, boat contractor, who built many of the boats and barges used on the Great Lakes the last 50 years, died yesterday. For many years he operated an excursion boat on the Kalamazoo river. Funeral services will be held Saturday.

Son in Navy

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Frank E. Hyatt, chief boatswain's mate in the United States navy, stood proudly in the naval recruiting office at the United States courthouse yesterday as he watched his son, Frank R., sworn into the service. The younger Hyatt who was 17 years old last Tuesday was recruited by his father in Oshkosh, Wis., where the family resides. The elder Hyatt has a record of 20 years in the navy. His son hopes to be an aviation metalsmith.

SUSPENDED FOR FLYING CAMERA MAN OVER SHIP

New York, July 3 [Special].—In a decision made public today, the civil aeronautics board ordered a 60 day suspension of the license of Hugh C. Robbins, pilot for the Waco Sales Co., who flew a New York News photographer over the New York harbor last April 6 to obtain pictures of the crippled British battleship Malaya, here for repairs.

Altho the photographer, John Hemmer, had testified that the Waco plane never was lower than 750 feet above the harbor, the board ruled that Robbins had flown below 500 feet over the water, which is an infraction of regulations. The board also ruled that he had flown lower than 1,000 feet over a congested area.

A third charge—that Robbins had flown closer than 500 feet to another aircraft in flight—also was sustained, altho the pilots of two navy planes testified it was they who had flown close, and that Robbins was attempting to keep out of their way.

FIRST DRAFTEES IN OVER 28 CLASS DEFERRED HERE

Only 240 draftees instead of the scheduled 365 reported for induction into the army yesterday at the new headquarters of the Chicago draft station, on the fourth and fifth floors at 515 South Franklin street.

The other 125 men were notified Wednesday, only a few hours before their civilian life was to stop for a year, that they had been deferred under a new draft policy because they were older than 28 years.

Six men over 28, not aware of the new policy, reported to be inducted. When informed of the deferment plan, they insisted that they still were ready to serve their year. After signing deferment waivers, they were accepted. Several of the men were draft volunteers from Cook county boards.

Twins of all ages, sizes, sexes, and races will be at the Morrison hotel today for the convention of the International Twin association. Dr. H. H. Strandskov, instructor in zoölogy at the University of Chicago, also will be there, not as a twin but as a scientific chronicler of the vagaries, if any, of twinship as applied to color vision.

MOTHERS TO GET ROYAL RECEPTION AT FORT BLISS

Chicago Troops to Greet Relatives Today.

El Paso, Tex., July 3 [Special].—One hundred sixty-seven members of the 202d Mothers' club will be accorded a royal reception when they arrive tomorrow morning on the Californian from Chicago.

The group, consisting of mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, and some sweethearts of troopers of the 202d coast artillery antiaircraft regiment from Chicago who have been in training at the Fort Bliss-El Paso area since last September, occupy four special cars attached to the Californian. Besides that the train carries a dining car for the exclusive use of the Chicago delegation. Mrs. John H. Pierce, mother of Sergt. Robert Pierce, A battery, is president of the Mothers' club.

Officer from Every Battery.

Col. Charles G. Dawes, commanding officer of the 202d, will head the official reception committee, which will include his staff officers and an officer from every battery. Lined up will be the troopers whose relatives are coming to visit them. The regimental band will be there to play.

Army trucks will take the visitors to downtown quarters and return them later to the regimental parade ground, where Col. Dawes will deliver his address of welcome. Capt. William P. Cunningham, regimental chaplain, also will speak.

Noon dinner will be served visitors in the mess halls of their respective trooper relatives. They will have all their meals in the camp during their El Paso stay, which will be until Sunday night.

See Their Boys in Training.

As planned by Col. Dawes, mothers will see their boys at their training duties, including kitchen police.

The big regimental show, "All Bliss and 202," which troopers in the cast have been working hard to perfect for the visitors, will be given Friday night.

A special regimental ceremonial parade will be held Saturday morning in honor of the visitors. Following that Capt. Philip R. Pattison will give a talk on camp and military activities.

IT'S GOV. LENNON NOW; HE'S HEAD OF 'STATE' AT 17

Illinois Boys Elect Entire Slate of Officials.

Springfield, Ill., July 3 (AP).—Arthur Lennon of Joliet, 17 year old Joliet Catholic High school graduate, was elected governor of the seventh annual Premier Boys' State today. The organization is sponsored by the American Legion.

Other Winning Candidates.

Tom Flinn, Hinsdale, lieutenant governor; Bill Jensen, Glen Ellyn, secretary of state; Robert Shippe, Lena, state auditor; James Fay, Joliet, attorney general; Bill Paisley, Marion, state treasurer; Benny Aron, 3236 West 66th place, Chicago, superintendent of public instruction, and Fred Wolff, 2666 Lincoln avenue, Chicago, clerk of the Supreme court.

The election climaxed activities which began last Saturday. Officers for model cities and councils have already been elected, courts have been established, a police force formed—all run by the 1,280 boys selected from each of the state's 102 counties.

Conceived in Illinois seven years ago, the Boys State program has now been adopted by 37 states as part of the American Legion's Americanism training for youth. Gov. Green administered the oath of office to Lennon tonight at the Fair Ground ceremonies.

Park Ridge Girl Elected.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 3 (AP).—Miss Nancy Kollman, Park Ridge, Cook county, Nationalist party candidate, was elected governor of Illinois Girls' state, "model government" encampment, at the election of officers today. Miss Kollman defeated Miss Lois West of Elmwood, Peoria county.

As governor of the girls' state, which is sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary, Miss Kollman will preside tomorrow at the Independence day program at which Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin will address the nearly 400 girls present.

The program will be held on the campus of MacMurray College for Women, where the girls' state has been in session since Sunday. The girls' state orchestra and chorus of 150 voices will take part.

Others elected today were: Lieutenant governor—Lois Pearson, Des Plaines; secretary of state—Doris Dora of Danville; state treasurer—Audry Babcock, Aledo; auditor of public accounts—Marion Hardtke; Arlington Heights; superintendent of public instruction—Helen Norde, Mount Olive; attorney general—Mary Beth Robinson, Jacksonville.

3,500 MEMBERS OF 33D DIVISION TAKE HOLIDAY

Thirty-five hundred Illinois soldiers of the 33d division, former Illinois National Guard organization now in federal training at Camp Forrest, Tenn., were on their way home last night to spend Independence day with their families and friends in this state. Three thousand of the men were traveling in special trains and the rest by buses, airplanes, and private cars.

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the division, said the 3,500 men will return to camp Monday.

Wieboldt's Will Be Open for Business Saturday, July 5th

In order that our employees may receive greater benefits from their new Profit-Sharing Plan—

After much consideration, and in consultation with employee committees, the Wieboldt management decided to stay open for business as usual on Saturday, July 5th.

On May 1st, 1941, a new Wage-Dividend Plan was launched for the benefit of our thousands of employees. Thru increased sales and increased efficiency of operation and greater service to our customers they were pledged a participation in the anticipated greater profits of our business.

May's normal profit showing was enhanced immeasurably by our employees' enthusiasm and ingenuity to greater serve our customers. Their participation resulted in each employee receiving an additional 9.8% of their actual May salary as their share in the Wage-Dividend Plan.

Their added efforts in behalf of good management should produce for them similarly favorable increased income during the month of June, just closed.

It is therefore the combined wish of both employees and management that the month of July go forward without interruption of service to Wieboldt customers—that our customers may buy their normal summer needs whenever they are in the habit of buying them—that Wieboldt employees may continue to enjoy increased earnings thru the results of better and more alert management of our business.

In addition to our normal, everyday, "friendly, near-your-home prices and services" you will enjoy therefore an added interest in the purchasing of your hot weather requirements—

CALDWELL SAFE YIELDS NO CLEW TO UNION'S CASH

Members View Lavish Offices of Ex-Boss.

Half a dozen members of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association, local 1248, yesterday learned something of the style in which they have been keeping Max Caldwell, ousted business agent and reputed czar of the union. They paid a visit to union headquarters, 400 South State street, to witness the grand opening of Caldwell's office safe. Investigators had hoped the safe would yield a clew to the whereabouts of $910,000 in allegedly missing dues and, perhaps, the missing list of union members.

But the safe was almost as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. A few blank cards, some rubber stamps, and two unused ledgers were all the investigators found after the safe doors were drilled open.

Office Interests Unionists.

But the unionists, members of an insurgent block which forced Caldwell's involuntary retirement from his supposedly lucrative post a month ago, said they found the offices no less interesting than the safe and filing cabinets which contained only dust.

Caldwell's former private office has a thick plush carpet and the latest in air conditioning equipment. The walls are papered to resemble knotty pine, and there are a number of gleaming fluorescent lighting fixtures. All were bought with union funds, according to Attorney Francis Heisler, counsel for the insurgents.

Dues were collected from the clerks at the rate of $2 a month, plus an initiation feé of from $10 to $25. The union's estimated income while Caldwell was in power was $10,600 a month—from workers whose salaries probably averaged less than $20 a week.

Frank Socki Jr., temporary chairman of the local's new organization, and his companions, all youthful clerks, window trimmers, or sign painters, eyed the carpet and air conditioning units.

$250 Rent Paid on Offices.

They said they thought that paying $250 a month rental for the offices—three rooms on the sixth floor of an old building at State and Van Buren streets—which Caldwell reportedly did, was being a bit too free with their money. A gilded statuette with eagles and a laurel wreath and a full chested goddess, which the union had presented to Caldwell for "loyalty and achievement," also brought grins to the faces of the union members.

Caldwell is really Max Pollack, who was sentenced in 1925 to serve six months on the Indiana state prison farm for a liquor law violation. Official records indicate he never served the sentence. He assumed his present name some time after the conviction.

He is under suspension by the international union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. An accounting suit filed in Circuit court by the insurgents is intended to reveal what happened to the $910,000 which they allege was collected in dues in the last three years.

Deposition Hearing Monday.

Notice that depositions in this suit will be taken at 2 p. m. Monday in Attorney Heisler's office, 77 West Washington street, from Caldwell and his brother, Michael Pollack, also a former official of the local, and six other former officials, was served on the defendants yesterday. Attorney Heisler said he will request that all who do not appear be held in contempt of court.

State's Attorney Courtney has entered the case and has assigned an assistant, William Crawford, to make a full inquiry. Courtney was represented at the safe opening yesterday by Sergt. William Sweeney of his staff. Also present was Sergt. John O'Brien of the detective bureau labor detail, along with two federal agents, Martin O'Brien and Francis Partalan of the bureau of internal revenue, which is trying to determine whether Caldwell and his associates have kept up with their income tax payments.

TRACTION UNITY ORDINANCE WINS O. K. AT CAPITAL

Carmody Insists on Sound Modernization Plan.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that John M. Carmody, head of the Federal Works agency, has approved Chicago's transit unification ordinance passed by the city council June 19. Approval of the merger program by FWA was required in the federal grant for Chicago's subway.

John M. Carmody.

In a letter to the mayor, Carmody termed the ordinance "satisfactory," but added that the FWA wants assurance that a large transit modernization program can be financed by the proposed unified company.

The mayor has taken the position that passage of the traction ordinance leaves financial problems up to the transit lines.

Carmody also released to the city an additional $1,700,720 of the federal subway grant. This makes a total of $12,346,610 deposited by FWA out of a total commitment of $23,130,000. The city is paying $34,270,000 of the cost from the traction fund.

The city's ordinance has been sent to Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, who has jurisdiction over the surface and elevated lines. Judge Igoe has asked the committees representing securities holders of the surface and elevated lines to file suggestions or objections to the ordinance Monday.

It was learned yesterday that several surface lines' securities committees, including the largest group, are unwilling to accept the ordinance unless a plan first can be found for financing the transit improvements of 102 million dollars set out in the ordinance.

Meanwhile, attorneys for the surface lines' $72,720,000 of first mortgage bonds yesterday asked Judge Igoe to authorize payment on Aug. 1 of semiannual interest of $1,818,000. The judge continued the request to July 11, when the entire unification plan is set for a hearing.

Injured in Blast

Betty Miller. Arlene Zeedyk.

Florence Kuto. Donna Harbutt.

Six girls in a WPA sewing class and their teacher were burned or injured yesterday when a boiler exploded beneath the room in which they were working in the Clyde park community house, 1820 South 51st avenue, Cicero.

Lieut. Frank Machacek of the Cicero police said the explosion was caused by a defective safety valve in the boiler, which was used to heat water for showers.

Lorraine Zeedyk, 12 years old, 4637 19th street, and Betty Miller, 10, of 4631 19th street, were taken to Loretto hospital, suffering from burns on the forearms and hands. Lorraine's cousin, Arlene Zeedyk, 12, of 4639 19th street; Patricia Svec, 11, of 2106 South 48th court; Donna Harbutt, 11, of 2103 South 49th avenue; Florence Kuto, 9, of 1816 South 51st court, and Mrs. Margaret Busch, 40, of 1827 South 50th avenue, the teacher, were all released after being treated by a physician. All live in Cicero.

JUSTICE MOVES SWIFTLY IN 3 FEDERAL CASES

Justice moved swiftly in federal District court for three men last week.

One of them, Willard O. Gavin, 43 years old, 839 Monroe street, a confessed rifler of hall mail boxes, was arrested last Monday, indicted two days later, and sentenced to 60 days in prison yesterday.

The others were Robert Smith, colored, 431 Plummer avenue, Calumet City, a check forger, and John Trimay, 23, of 734 North Ada street, a mail thief and check forger. Smith was arrested a week ago last Wednesday and Trimay the following Friday. Smith's sentence was for 60 days and Trimay's for six months. Judge Michael L. Igoe sentenced all three.

The swiftness with which the cases were disposed of is the result of the new policy of United States Attorney J. Albert Woll to eliminate delays which previously kept men in jail for weeks awaiting trial.

ELEVATED UNION VOTES TO ACCEPT 5c AN HOUR RAISE

Members of the Elevated Employés union voted, 1,531 to 61, yesterday to accept a Chicago Rapid Transit company proposal for a 5 cent an hour wage increase, 10 day vacations with pay, $40 monthly pensions for men 65 years old with at least 20 years' service, and a basic 8 hour day in train service. W. F. Levander, president of division 508 of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America [AFL], said the new contract will be retroactive to June 1.

SHOW OF HOME FURNISHINGS TO OPEN ON MONDAY

With imports cut off, a truly American line of goods will be presented at the International Home Furnishings market opening Monday in the Merchandise Mart. More than 11,000 buyers from the 48 states, Canada, and Central and South America are expected to inspect the articles that will cover nine floors in the world's largest office building. The market will continue thru July 19.

Arms production has shortened some lines, but it has not restricted ideas. Manufacturers have entered the field of interior decoration in a group of eight basic shades used to harmonize drapes, floor coverings, and slip covers.

STONE RECEIVES CHIEF JUSTICE'S OATH IN ROCKIES

Rocky Mountain Park, Colo., July 3 (AP).—Harlan F. Stone, born on a New Hampshire farm and once a center on Amherst college's football team, was sworn into office as chief justice of the United States today in a weather beaten log cabin high in the Rocky mountains. President Roosevelt had signed his commission as justice only a few hours before in Hyde Park, N. Y.

Lewis Tepper of 3810 Arthington street, a butcher with a shop at 3547 Roosevelt road, usually puts the receipts from his day's business in the safe of a restaurant at 3613 Roosevelt road. Last night he closed the shop and started toward the restaurant with $1,200 in cash and $600 in checks in his pocket. In front of 3601 Roosevelt road, two bandits, one of them armed, took the money from him.

CARMODY TELLS LONG RANGE WPA SPENDING PLANS

The importance of long range plans for WPA spending to help cushion an expected employment slump when the armament boom is finished, was stressed yesterday to state WPA administrators by their chief, John Carmody, federal works administrator.

At the closing session of a two day conference in the Stevens hotel, Carmody said that many more project applications are being received than can be provided for under the reduced appropriation for the current fiscal year—875 million dollars, compared with 1 billion 350 millions last year.

These applications, altho temporarily put on the shelf, will be studied and classified, according to Carmody, so that a long range program of useful projects can be scheduled. He said that if such a program had beeen adopted early in WPA history there would not have been so much waste of funds.

Fred Rauch, assistant commissioner in charge of training and reemployment, said arrangements are being made to place WPA workers on farms.

CANADA ACCUSED OF STALLING ON 'ALASKA HIGHWAY

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Anthony J. Diamond, Alaska delegate in congress, declared in an interview today that the Canadian national government is "stalling, delaying, and procrastinating" in negotiations to bring about the construction of a 25 million dollar highway from the United States to Alaska.

Efforts to get the road constructed started several years ago and were intensified after the United States established great army and navy bases in the territory. Recently the American-Alaska International Highway commission, headed by Representative Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.], and the Canadian-Alaskan Highway commission held meetings here and in Juneau. It was agreed the state department should negotiate a treaty with Canada to construct the road.

"The Canadians are stalling along and not doing anything toward getting this necessary highway started," Diamond said. "I have no official information upon which to base my belief, but I know it is true. Canada just will not say 'we won't coöperate' but just keeps postponing and postponing."

DEPUTY KILLED IN MILK STRIKE CLASH IN EAST

Crushed Under Truck as Pickets Attack It.

Rutland, Vt., July 3 (AP).—Deputy Sheriff Ray Russell of Monkton was killed today in a fight that developed when striking dairy farmers attempted to dump a truckload of milk bound for the New York market.

Russell was riding on a milk truck on its way from Waltham to Vergennes when strikers attempted to halt it and dump the truckload of milk. In the fight Russell fell from the running board and was crushed beneath the wheels of the vehicle.

8,000 Gallons Dumped.

Earlier more than 6,000 gallons of milk bound for the New York milksheds was dumped in three towns by men who halted the trucks on their way to plants.

Soon after the death of Russell, who was married and the father of a family, four men were taken into custody and removed to Middlebury. The sheriff's office said no formal charges were made against the men, who were named as Martin Pilger of Waltham, William and George Sullivan of Panton, and Donald O'Donnell of Ferrisburg.

Russell was said to have been the only deputy riding on the truck, belonging to Sanford Derrick of Addison. The clash occurred near the town of Vergennes, which has about 1,700 inhabitants.

Seeking Higher Price.

At Bridport two trucks were halted and 6,000 gallons of milk was dumped on the road after the drivers were halted by a barricade.

Eight cans of milk were dumped from a truck making a delivery at a Fair Haven bulk plant, and 12 cans were spilled on the road at Vergennes.

The Dairy Farmers' union called a "milk holiday" in Addison and Rutland counties to withhold milk from the New York shed pending agreement in a price dispute.

In New York convoys of milk tankers guarded by state troopers were fired on by unidentified snipers during the night en route to the New York City market.

Several arrests followed milk dumping in New York. The Dairy Farmers' union said a protest was sent to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman against state troopers convoying milk tank trucks on the ground the strike was being conducted "without violence."

PRESIDENT SIGNS DEFICIENCY BILL WITH A PROTEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 3.—President Roosevelt, vacationing at his mother's Hyde Park estate, today signed, but with a protest, the $1,041,444,529 deficiency bill for the 1941 fiscal year, just closed. He objected to a rider to the measure which prevented the extension of civil service to employés of the Farm Security administration, and expressed a hope that congress would take prompt action to repeal the rider.

The President also approved a bill authorizing the secretary of the interior to issue oil and gas leases on certain lands in Wyoming. Another bill signed will permit National Guard and reserve personnel to be assigned to aviation training on the same basis as regular army personnel.

2 Day Strike at Savanna Ordnance Depot Is Ended

Savanna, Ill., July 3 [Special].—Two hundred carpenters and laborers returned to their jobs at the ordnance depot here today bringing to an end a two day strike of an AFL union that had delayed construction on ammunition magazines.

NOBODY WAS NICE TO ME, BLUBBERS SLAYER OF FOUR

Bernard [Knifey] Sawicki abandoned his arrogant manner yesterday in his county jail cell and blubbered to Warden Frank Sain, "I never had a chance. Nobody was ever nice to me."

Sain spoke with the young slayer after guards reported Sawicki had been especially surly and insolent. "We talked a while," the warden said, "and he soon became less tough. He said he never had any religious beliefs or training."

Murder charges against Sawicki probably will be heard Monday, when a new grand jury convenes. Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant prosecutor, yesterday instructed Edmund Grant, assistant state's attorney assigned to the case, to notify witnesses to the three murders committed by Sawicki over the week-end to appear before the grand jury Monday. Sawicki's fourth murder, that of Henry Allain, an elderly farmer, was committed last Friday in Allain's farm, outside Momence, Ill. Other victims were Park Policeman Charles Speaker, 58 years old, John J. Miller, 19, of 5542 63d place, and Charles Kwasinski a former inmate of the state training school for boys at St. Charles.

M. P. NIENHUIS, PACKER, DIES.

Holland, Mich., July 3 [Special].—Martin P. Nienhuis, 67, died last night at his home south of here. He had been active in wholesale and retail meat business and a copartner in Holland Packing company here. The widow, seven children, two sisters, and three brothers survive. Save Our Republic

THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

The American revolution is not wholly explained by our customary conventional thought about the matter. It probably was more extraordinary in what it wasn't than in what it was. It was not a revolution against property or the propertied class, altho it didn't find its greatest numerical support in that class.

The tories were nearly all men of substance, as it was understandable that they should be. The government in London was the government representing security and order and the guaranty of their private possessions. The revolution wasn't aimed at tory property, but the tories could readily think that it might be.

It is more extraordinary that so many propertied men became revolutionary leaders. George Washington was supposed to be the greatest property owner in the country. There were men of wealth in almost all the colonies who threw their weight to the revolutionary cause and risked their lives in promoting it, either as soldiers or as civil administrators and legislators.

It wasn't a revolution conducted by politically ambitious men. The great American leaders were not covetous of authority. The best of them wanted to return to their homes as soon as they could achieve the purpose to which they were devoted. Washington is the highest type of these singular men. They did not want to rule. They had no desire to set themselves up as the state. Many of them would gladly have shunned public life after independence had been won.

These are not the characteristics of revolution. Nor did the fighting Americans arise against intolerable tyrannies as such tyrannies had been known and were known in Europe, and as they are known there now. The colonists and the British had fought side by side against common enemies. The acts of parliament complained of over the period of years preceding the call to arms were more obnoxious in principle than unjust in effect.

The tax impositions were less material than the trade restrictions. The tea tax was probably a small thing as compared with the prohibition of the export of iron manufactures, but the colonists wouldn't pay the tax and they did submit to having their trade relations and their industries controled in London. They protested when they were forbidden to go west of the Atlantic watershed, but they didn't go to war about it.

Until Great Britain, meeting the forcible opposition to the taxes, clamped the five intolerable acts down on Boston the rule hadn't been iron-handed. Jefferson's indictment of George III. and his inhumanities, in the declaration, denounces acts which followed the armed uprising. The American revolution proceeded from a realization that the destiny of the American states, if it was wisely directed, would be free from European influences.

Wise patriots here had watched the development of a free type of man. They could contrast the good fortunes of that man with what they knew to be the common lot where wars were interminable and financial burdens excessive. A society had grown up free from the imposition of a titled caste, if not wholly free from the assumptions of the superior person. Even they were being leveled out and the notion of the vulgar class was disappearing.

Unquestionably, the ascription of the colonial status in a derogatory sense to the Americans rankled, probably even more than the attempts at taxation. Even Washington in his association with British officers in colonial wars felt the indignity of the place he was to occupy in the colonial scheme of things.

Many sincere efforts were made to convince the American patriots that they were making a great mistake in breaking loose from the mother country. After the disastrous retreat from Long Island, where the American cause seemed lost and where it might have been if the British had pushed their advantage, an unusual scene took place. Franklin, Adams, and Rutledge, at the invitation of Howe, visited him at his Staten Island headquarters. These three distinguished rebels, going into the camp of the British general, trusted his word and were willing to listen to what he had to say. It was a plea for peace which they politely rejected. They accepted the dinner, listened to the arguments, and went their way, unconvinced and unyielding. The Declaration of Independence had been adopted a few months before and that was the last word of the new American nation.

It required remarkable tenacity to stand out not only against the armed forces of a powerful country but against the blandishments of a conciliatory motherland. So there must have been a great vision of the future to sustain men who declined to make peace on attractive terms and who conducted a war at so much risk in the growing bitterness. If that vision was as complete as it was true, the patriots saw themselves leading a great country into more than a political independence. They saw it severing its bonds with the old world and gaining a freedom not only to have its own government, endowed with the new principles it was to have, but a freedom from the oppressions which no generation of Europeans seemed able to escape.

The American way of life had been established and it was not compatible with the European way of life. There were many Englishmen who agreed thoroly with the Americans, but Great Britain was the heart of a growing empire and it was part of the European scheme.

The freedom which the United States achieved from the complexities and turmoil of life abroad is now called isolation. It wasn't called that during all the years it was successfully maintained as an elemental principle of American foreign relations, altho isolation as a physical fact was no more obtainable then than now, and even less so, because in other years Europe was constantly pressing in on the American continent with its diplomacy and its armed forces.

People who now hold fast to the idea which was thought to be the permanent doctrine of the United States are seeking to maintain the security which that doctrine conferred.

THE BEAST OF MOSCOW SPEAKS.

Josef Stalin, scared out of his silence by the Nazi advance, took to the air to call upon all the people of the soviet union to resist the invader in their country's hour of great peril. It is noted that this is the first time since 1936 that he has spoken to the country. As an Asiatic despot he has worked behind the walls of the Kremlin and behind the proxies who were put forward to make the harangues and appear in foreign affairs.

The man who is responsible for more human misery than any since the Mongolian invasions, of which in fact he is a modern instance, endeavors to present himself as the great leader of a free people struggling against a bloody tyranny. In that rôle he responds to the encouragement he has been given in London and Washington.

The man who is now defying Hitler was but recently the partner of the Nazi fury in invasions, aggressions, and subjugation of peoples exposed to the war which his perfidy had been an instrument in releasing. If Hitler had wanted an example of bad faith in dealing with other countries and of cruelty in ruling at home, he would have needed only to imitate Stalin. His own natural genius in these lines probably needs no examplar, but the system he uses was ready made for him by the man who is ruling Russia.

Stalin's position now is probably precarious. The Kremlin may not be a safe asylum and a despot in flight may realize that his skin is not safe. Twenty-four years of the Red terror have trained the Russians to acceptance of their hardships. No one under 35 has really known anything else than the rule of the commissars and of the secret police. The purges have liquidated all opposition, but there must be some memories of the various horrors thru which the land of the bolshevists was forced to pass.

Stalin will deceive no one except those who want to deceive others. He has an unparalleled record of brutality and treachery. He was responsible for more human misery inflicted upon the people over whom he had power than could have been caused by an exterminating war.

This new apostle of the rights of man is the fellow who laid the land waste by his attacks upon the peasants, sending them to die in exile in frozen wastes, causing the destruction of their crops and of their live stock, and bringing several devastating famines to the land. In the service of his inhumanities he trained a police system in which all vestiges of human feeling were extinguished.

In the pursuit of his absolute power he killed all his associates in the revolution, seizing them by groups and shooting them by squads. That this was appropriate justice handed out to men who had been guilty of ruthless terrorism themselves could not take the mark of the murderer off the man who executed them. They had been his co-workers.

Stalin was quoted by several of the bolos, before he shot them and while they were still in his confidence, as saying that the finest thing in life was to wait until opportunity slowly gave you the chance to get the unsuspecting man you wanted, not to hurry in doing what you wanted to do, but to relish the unfolding of your purposes, then strike and go to bed to sleep satisfied. That was the Transcaucasian Asiatic, Soso Djugashvilli, whom we know as Stalin, talking.

When the turn of events and the hypocrisies of men make a champion of freedom of a cold blooded murderer who has suppressed and destroyed freedom, the historical sense feels a paralysis. There is no comment which can decorate the scene when Josef Stalin appeals to the good opinion of the world as the defender of human rights and of the four freedoms.

Stalin and his particular brand of communism are fighting for existence. The Russian people, unfortunately, victims as they have been of Stalin and his system, are meeting the attacks of another oppressor who, to the dismay of the world, has an almost perfect fighting machine. The Nazi invader is forcing his way into their land and they are resisting. It has become for them the defense of the fatherland. Stalin calls upon them to fall back into the depths of their country, to scorch the earth as they go, to destroy what they cannot take away, and leave nothing which the enemy can use. They may do this. They learned to do it when Stalin himself was ravaging their land. They learned to destroy it when they were not allowed to cultivate it for their own uses.

The Russians may retire into their distances with what forces they can extricate. They may burn their lands and destroy their resources as they retreat. They have been tenacious in defense before. They may be again. They may present Hitler with great, but incomplete, victories and the prospect of a long war of no certain result. There may be destruction and loss of life such as even our violence ridden times have not seen. Of that we do not know.

We should see the impossibility of adjusting American ideas to Europe's tradition of conduct. Let us perfect our national defense and devote our energy to the preservation of the republic from its internal enemies who would make it a dictatorship with the excuse of a foreign war.

Editorial of the Day

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The war department is just getting around to asking congress to authorize the army to discharge unfit officers. Acting Secretary Patterson says they constitute "a real danger to national security." Also, we make bold to add, a real danger to the lives of the young men who have been drafted into the service.

All armies rust in peace. If they have sufficient pull, unfit officers survive on the active list, along with the alert and competent. When war comes their unfitness is too often tragically revealed. Congressmen, if they have sons in the draft, should not take long to vote the army the power to weed out officers better fitted for the ranks than for commanding them.

Sole member of the original cast to appear in the closing performance of "Tobacco Road" was the banker with the mortgage. Those fellows never weaken.—Atlanta Constitution.

Home Recordings.

An Englishwoman, Mrs. Michael Layton, brought her baby daughter to America last summer and has been living in Wilmette. The little girl is now 2 years old and Mrs. Layton decided to make some recordings of her voice to send to her father, who is manager of a munitions plant in a Midlands city and son of Sir Walter Layton of the British ministry of supply, so he could hear how his daughter could now talk. Several records were made at the home of some friends, the William Rays. The Rays gave Mrs. Layton the records and heard no more about them until the other day, when they asked if her husband had received them.

No, she had never sent them, she said. Altho there was no prohibition of records being mailed to England, the customs authorities had explained to her that it would hardly be worth while to send a home recording because it would be played so many times by the censors en route, each one thus reassuring himself that it contained no secret code or propaganda, that the grooves would be worn off it long before it would reach its destination.

QUERY.

The mikado and his men
Buy our oil with phony yen
At the rate of sixty thousand barrels daily,
The while Coördinator Ickes
Pulls another of his quickies
And forecasts gasless Sundays almost gayly.

I merely wish to ask,
So don't take me to task,
Nor cast aspersions on this patriotic pippin,
But if we must have gasless Sundays,
With subsequent blue Mondays,
Why not have them on the silly isle of Nippon?

Old Timers' Dialog.

Bert Cowdrey, retired police officer, and Ralph Kettering, one time operator of the old Illinois theater, were discussing the activities that saved the Auditorium. Their conversation:

"Why all this sudden interest in preserving old hotels and theaters?" asked Cowdrey.

"Maybe Chicago's good people are beginning to appreciate the historical significance of our old institutions."

"But why didn't they make a fuss about the demolition of our Stratford, the Windsor-Clifton, the Grand Pacific, and the other old time hotels, built long before the Auditorium, and where historical personages lived and great dinners were given?"

"For instance, the great game dinner every autumn at the Grand Pacific," interposed Kettering.

"Of course, the Auditorium theater has its historical aspects," Cowdrey suggested.

"So had Hooley's, the Columbia, Hopkins', the Alhambra, Howard's, the Academy, Bijou, and Criterion, all built long before the Auditorium," said Kettering. He smiled, removed his long, black cigar from his mouth, and then spoke. "When I think of the Criterion I also think of my old friend, Lincoln J. Carter, who produced at that theater more melodramas than were produced in any other Chicago theater, and what's more, he wrote his own plays, invested his own money, staged them, and booked them."

"And many people who looked upon the magnificent painting at the top of the staircase of the Auditorium have wondered who the beautiful lady could be. I wonder what they would say if they knew it was Louise Lord Carter, wife of the famous Lincoln J.?" asked Cowdrey.

"People of the theater meant a great deal to the people of Chicago in those days," Kettering continued. "As an usher at Powers' theater it was my duty to go out in search of Nat Goodwin every evening about curtain time, and when Lillian Russell played our house I was the boy who delivered her big, black cigars to her. In those days it would have been fatal to have it known that a lady smoked even cigarets, but Lillian preferred her cigar."

"Those were the days when Chicago sent forth more than 150 original stage productions each year. Don't you remember the old Masonic temple offices filled with producers such as Rowland & Clifford, Klimt & Gazzolo, Gaskill & MacVitty, Gatts, Peck & Sackett, Kilroy & Britton?" suggested Cowdrey.

"And do you remember when I wrote the book and lyrics for Gus Hill's McFadden's Row of Flats?" Kettering interrupted. "I am always reminded of the times when my old friend, John Leffler, comes to town. He was the fellow who produced Buster Brown, The Newlyweds and Their Baby, and other cartoon musicals in opposition to Gus. John was here as manager of Du Barry Was a Lady this winter and we had a great time comparing notes."

"Well, if they are going to save the Auditorium hotel and theater, they might also consider saving a few old Chicago hotels and theaters that are just as historical," Cowdrey concluded.

"For instance, the Alexandria, the Alvarado, the Chicago Beach, the Grace, the Majestic, and a dozen other hotels, not forgetting the site of the present Washington, where once the famous Chicago daily newspaper, the Chronicle, was published," suggested Ralph.

ARGENTINA EASES CONTROLS

BY HAROLD TATAM,

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES.—When the Argentine government recently abolished the exchange control bureau it did not abolish control of exchange. The action merely abolished the obligation of importers to obtain prior permits on about 85 per cent of their imports.

Control of exchange still will be exercised by the central bank. In effect, the title of exchange control bureau was a misnomer; it was more of an import control office, inasmuch as its principal function was to regulate imports.

The decree abolishing the prior permit has been welcomed by importers because it will save them a great deal of trouble. It is not expected to be of any particular benefit otherwise. Those who imagined that Argentina-United States trade immediately would soar as a result of it have already begun to realize their mistake.

The abolition of the prior permit system amounts to the elimination of the formality of applying for such a permit, inasmuch as 85 per cent of the imports come under compensation agreements, including imports from the sterling [British] area.

A factor, however, which may have considerable influence in fomenting Argentina-United States trade is the recently formed corporation for the promotion of trade, an entity composed of local American business executives. This corporation aims to push the sale of Argentine produce in the United States and so create exchange for the payment of automobiles and other American products.

PERSIST IN OUR STRUGGLE FOR LIBERTY.

In what was one of the darkest hours in our history, Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet-doctor, delivered the Fourth of July oration before the assembled citizens of Boston. The occasion was the 88th anniversary of American independence, and the words he uttered then apply with striking fidelity on this the 165th birthday of the United States of America.

In ringing sentences he warned against yielding to the dictates of tyrants and he defined the American way of life as true democracy. He admonished his hearers that they would be the subject of attack from within and from without; and that the constitution would have to be defended time and again. He held that the Declaration of Independence was the first document to announce to the peoples of the earth that liberty had been born.

Holmes spoke as a physician as well as a patriot. He knew full well that for mental poise we must have faith in our plan of living; we must be ever mindful that there are those who would alarm and, at the same time, destroy. Calmness is necessary for accomplishment—not hysteria. A milling, shouting, frenzied mob is symbolic of panic. It may arise in an effort to escape from some fancied or real danger, or to wreak unlawful injury.

Every enemy of democracy is a foe of popular rights. Our first duty, then, is to put our own house in order, with the rejection of all principles that are unfair or that make citizens puppets instead of men. Here, again, Holmes came to the fore with the counsel that our children's children may be obliged to go thru the same trials which our forefathers suffered in order to retain a government of, for, and by the people.

How many of us realize fully the duty that lies in self-government? Demagogs are sure to arise when neglect of the ballot places them in office. It may require a generation to dislodge these interlopers whose rule is "What can I get out of it?" rather than "What can I do for the public weal?"

But what has all this to do with health? Merely this—we must rid our minds of fear. We can best do it with work—by making ourselves so strong that no people or union of peoples will dare raise a threat against our shores. And we must banish into outer darkness those who would rend the fabric of our institutions. We must keep so busy with our own affairs, building an impregnable position, that little concern need be accorded the ominous croakings of power-hungry ravens.

Perhaps more than all else do we need the unselfish spirit of the pioneer who fought the wilderness in creating a home for his family. He was grateful for the opportunity and he possessed sufficient stamina for the achievement of his task. No hand held him back from work, no dictator repressed his desire to toil or regulated his hours. He found joy in labor and he hewed, for his fellow countrymen, a pathway along which thousands of others traveled to new opportunities. Despite disease, drouth, marauding Indians, and outlaws he emerged triumphant because of his superlative valor.

The glorious Fourth—with its "speechifying," fireworks, picnics, and family reunions—we celebrate in peace and reasonable prosperity. But unless the day means what it should, unless we catch the spirit and ideals of those of yesterday, unless there can be a minimum of selfishness in high places with more thought for the common good, unless our economic forces operate in all fairness and with but one objective—the safety of a great nation—we may find that our freedom has been filched away.

AMEBIC DYSENTERY.

J. K. writes: If a case of amebic dysentery is once cured, will the patient continue to have symptoms?

REPLY.

Cure means the end of the malady—complete restoration to normal health. If symptoms are present, the individual has probably been reinfected with the entameba histolytica.

BEERY-EYED.

Mrs. J. C. writes: Why does a person's eyes become red on drinking beer?

REPLY.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 22.

1. You would be most likely to find a curator at work in a Tannery Hospital Church Museum.
2. In law, the maiming of a person is designated as Mayhem Corpus Delicti Collusion Arson
3. The average fountain pen is most likely to leak when it is Brimful ½ full ¼ full Almost empty.
4. A tanager would be classified as Amphibian Bird Fish Mineral.
5. It is estimated that the distance walked each day by the average American is approximately 2½ miles 4¼ miles 7¾ miles 11½ miles.
6. Here is a practical problem in farm arithmetic. Below are listed the average annual yields of milk in pounds for the five major breeds of dairy cattle in this country. The per cent of fat content also is included on a separate line. If you were interested solely in the butter output of cattle, which of these breeds would be best? Rank them in order from best to poorest.

	Ayrshire.	Brown-Swiss.	Guernsey.	Holstein.	Jersey.
Average yield of milk per year..	6,500	7,000	5,750	8,500	5,250
Average per cent of butter fat.....	4.00	4.00	5.00	3.45	5.40
Butter yield.....	——	——	——	——	——

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-8, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

NOT IN HER HISTORY BOOK.

Quincy, Ill., July 2.—I am glad your paper carried excerpts from a recent London Times which admitted the Englishmen's meager knowledge of United States history.

This fact was brought to my attention three years ago when I began corresponding with a young woman in England. In one of my first letters to her—with Independence day in the offing—I mentioned that terrific fight with them and our resulting freedom. I was thoroly surprised when this girl, who is "educated," wrote concerning the Revolution: "I think I shall have to study that part of our history. What was the actual date—I mean the period when our two countries clashed? If I know a little more I can discuss things with you."

I did some explaining, and meantime this girl read an interesting United States history. The next letter from her said: "It was grand to read how America became such a great nation from such small beginnings. And what grand ideals those early people had! Of course, it was those ideals which helped to build America. Without them she could never have risen to where she is today." A tribute we deserve!

So I say "Give the British a good United States history textbook—for keeps."

ESTHER WILMA BROWN.

AN ALUMNUS CORRECTS US.

Evanston, Ill., June 30.—I wish to call to your attention a misstatement in your editorial relative to the University of Illinois. A student at this university is not required to swim the length of the swimming pool in order to receive his degree. I know because I received a degree from this university in 1931, and I was never required to pass such a test.

There are enough people in the East who consider the University of Illinois has a midwestern cow college, altho we know that it has some of the finest equipment for engineering, chemistry, library, and physical education ciricula, and I believe that you should be careful to support the state university to the best of your ability.

NOT "PEOPLE OF FASHION."

Chicago, June 30.—To Anna K. Freeman, who writes of an English woman of fashion, her shopping expeditions and her peke: Do you imagine it is the fashionable outfit that is fighting this damned war?

I wish she could read my mail from Scotland; she would change her mind. I have in one family over there about 20 in uniform, and by heaven, they are not fashionable—just God-fearing people who desire to live their own lives without interference from any one.

However, let's hope that when this holocaust is over there will be fewer lords and ladies. They should have died with Queen Victoria. SCOT.

LIKES THE TRUMBULL PICTURE.

Oak Park, Ill., June 29.—Thanks for that beautiful picture in color in yesterday's TRIBUNE of John Trumbull's painting of signing the Declaration of Independence. You have rendered a genuine service by furnishing your readers with a copy of that inspiring picture. I also appreciate the colored war maps which you have furnished from time to time.

A. G. FEGERT.

GENERALS YOUNG IN RUSSIA.

Chicago, June 30.—As to your editorial, "Young Men for War," it might be possible to learn something about commanding officers from the soviet army. The age limit for active service is 42 years, with a few exceptions. The retirement age is 52, without exceptions. Between 42 and the retiring age of 52, the officers act as teachers and instructors, both in colleges and in the field. Advancement depends entirely on ability and adaptability. Age and length of service are not taken into consideration. As an example: my captain was 38, the colonel was 28, the brigadier general was 32. The present commander in chief has just turned 52, but he is an exception.

Gen. Pershing was 57 when he went to France in 1917 as commander in chief. Had the present soviet policy been the United States policy, he would not have seen service in that war.

Elderly men make good statesmen, as a rule, but poor soldiers; policy makers, but not executors of policies. That field belongs to young men. There are exceptions, of course. Ludendorff was a fine general. Napoleon fell asleep on his horse at the battle of Waterloo. As a general, he was at the top at 28.

G. KRAVONOVITCH.

RADIO BLITZKRIEG.

Chicago, June 28.—We hear enough about the honking of auto horns but not enough about the blaring of loud radios. In New York a city law compels all users of radio to regulate the sound so that no neighbors are disturbed. Why not a tax for offenders? Deafness results, according to medical authorities—for the constant din of radio within a certain space . . . but what of the headaches and jangled nerves of those who are sensitive to sobs, groans, screams, bleating organs, and all the maudlin misery of unwanted programs coming in thru the open windows from all the adjoining flats? It is driving peace-loving people to insanity.

After 11 p. m. I want to sleep but the blitzkrieg keeps up until nearly dawn. I have lost two jobs on account of noise at night. TOTAL WRECK.

A SNAKE HUNT UP HERE?

Chicago, June 28.—You had an item about fishermen killing off water moccasins down in Louisiana. Why don't we follow suit and go to work on the snakes at Channamon, Ill., about 15 miles southwest of Joliet?

The Illinois and Du Page rivers and the Illinois and Michigan canal meet there, and the waters and woods near by are crawling with snakes. You can hardly keep from stepping on them. I've been told that even the banks of the Des Plaines river are loaded with them.

E. W. B.

ASKS: WHY WORRY, KID?

Omaha, Nebr., June 30.—I just read your editorial, "Headlong into What?" It just doesn't make sense. Here you are carping about spending another 11 billion dollars. You would think it was yours. Who cares how much we spend? I grabbed a good job in our new bomber plant at $11 a day and my "cup cakes." And, Kid, that ain't hay! When we run out o' bucks, we'll just print some more and then when money gets too cheap, we will just cancel all obligations and start all over again, with Fresh Money. The only ones that will be hurt are the moneybabies. Why worry, Kid, why worry?

REV. DOC FRANKLIN.

WANTS A NATION-WIDE POLL.

Beloit, Wis., June 29.—Congratulations to THE TRIBUNE for taking the initiative in a state-wide poll to ascertain the correct status of opinion of the people on the subject of war.

Every state in the Union should follow suit.

JUST A SIMPLE PROCESS.

Let congress repeal it. We go back immediately into the empire with King George VI., taking on where King George III. left off.

EMPLOYMENT AGREEMENT.

Chicago, June 25.—[Legal Friend of the People]—1. I am an attendant in a flat and have been paying my rent regularly on the end of the rent month.

2. About 10 days before my rent was due the landlord came to me and informed me I would have to move due to remodeling of the house.

3. How long does it take before they can evict me from the premises?

4. Can they compel me to pay the present month's rent? D. H.

1. It is the general rule that where an employé receives lodging as an incident to his employment the employment relationship is primary and termination of the employment within the rights specified in the contract of employment will also terminate the tenancy.

2. His right to do this would depend on his contract of employment.

3. If you refuse to move without court proceedings those court proceedings would probably take about two weeks.

4. If instead of meaning that you are an attendant rendering services you mean merely that you are a tenant, then the landlord's right to put you out depends on the nature of the tenancy.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The biggest and most luscious peaches are eaten raw. It would be a shame to cook them. But punier fruit which is slightly underripe is just the kind to be baked into a pie or cobbler.

Baked Peach Pie.

4 cups sliced fresh peaches
1 cup sugar [less if peaches are fully ripe]
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
3 tablespoons melted butter
Pastry for double crust

Line pie plate with pastry and fill with sliced peaches. Cover with mixture of sugar, salt, and flour. Drip butter over the top. Cover with gashed upper crust and press edges together well. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce heat and bake at 350 degrees about half an hour longer.

Brown sugar may be used instead of white, and makes a delicious pie.

Open Face Peach Pie.

4 cups sliced peaches or 10 small peaches, halved
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup cream
Pastry for single crust

Mix sugar and cornstarch, and cover bottom and sides of pastry lined pie pan with half the mixture. Arrange peaches on top. Use all sliced peaches, or arrange peach halves around the outer edge of the pastry and fill center with slices. Sprinkle rest of sugar and cornstarch over peaches, and pour cream over all. Bake in 450 degree oven for 10 minutes, reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and continue baking until peaches are tender, about half an hour. Serve with whipped cream, sweetened and lightly flavored with almond.

Luscious Peach Cobbler.

3 cups sliced peaches
⅝ to ¾ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup butter
⅓ cup grated cheese
About ⅝ cup milk

Mix peaches with sugar. Place in buttered baking dish and dot with butter. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in the ½ cup butter until mixture is in coarse lumps. Add grated cheese. Pour in milk, using a little more if needed to make a soft dough. Turn dough onto lightly floured board and knead gently for 30 seconds. Pat out to fit baking dish and cover peaches with dough. Bake in a 400 degree oven until brown, about 20 or 25 minutes. Cut in squares and serve warm with cream.

Two North Shore Debutantes Are Introduced to Society

[TRIBUNE Photos]

Country Clubs Make the 4th Children's Day

BY JUDITH CASS.

So many country club members have come to the conclusion that the best way for their children to spend a safe and sane Fourth of July is to take them to the club for fireworks that almost all the clubs are providing entertainment for youngsters this year. A water pageant in Onwentsia's swimming pool will engage the attention of children and adults alike between supper and the time for the fireworks display.

After the last rocket has burst in all its glory the very young will be sent home to bed, while their elder sisters and brothers and parents will stay on for dancing. Men golfers will play for the John H. Hamline Memorial cup today.

The Exmoor Country club will have a show for children, including a magician, between the supper hour and time for the fireworks. There will be ponies to ride in the afternoon. A buffet supper will be served in the grill and in the main dining room, and the club golf championship play will start. The club is having a dinner-dance tomorrow night.

The Chicago Golf club in Wheaton is having a children's party at the pool this afternoon with ice cream and cake on the menu, and a fireworks display tonight, following a buffet supper. The annual tournament for the President's cup will be played during the day. The club is having a dinner-dance tomorrow night.

Fireworks and Tennis at Dunham Woods Riding Club.

Another west suburban club, the Dunham Woods Riding club, also is providing a fireworks display for its members and their young. There will be a mixed doubles round robin tennis tournament today, tomorrow, and Sunday at this pleasant little club which has a swimming pool in addition to its tennis courts and stables.

The Glen View club is not having fireworks, but it has planned swimming events at the pool at 10 o'clock for various ages. There will be a children's buffet luncheon and a Punch and Judy show at 1:30 o'clock. The club had its dancing party last night.

Members of the Barrington Hills Country club will take their children to the club for entertainment at about 7 o'clock and a fireworks display. The Knollwood club is not having fireworks, but it has planned a tea dance at the swimming pool and exhibition tennis matches during the day. Tennis will be played at 3 o'clock, with a singles match between Charles Hare, former English Davis cup player, and Lloyd Budge, the club professional, and a doubles match featuring Mary Hardwick, English women's champion, and James Anderson, club champion, against Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Onwentsia champion, and Mr. Hare.

There will be a buffet luncheon and supper and men's golf events at the Indian Hill today. The Club is having a dinner-dance tomorrow night. The Shoreacres also is having a buffet luncheon today. The Saddle and Cycle will have an outdoor steak fry tonight, but it is not planning fireworks as members will be able to watch the display planned by the Edgewater Beach hotel a few feet north on the lake front.

Dinner-Dance, Fireworks at South Shore Club.

The South Shore Country club will be en fête all week-end with a fire-o'clock tonight and a dinner-dance tonight. The activities will start with the club's famed "Dawn's Early Light" golf tournament today. The Riverside Golf club will serve a special buffet supper tonight, with a fireworks display following.

No week-end at Lake Geneva would be complete without its quota of sailing races for the yacht-minded summer residents and their children, and this long week-end will be especially crowded with sailing events. The Fourth of July brings the traditional lobster luncheon at the Lake Geneva

The handsome pointed lines of this frock add to its tailored charm. Make it in a tricolor arrangement, for example, red, white, and blue, and add any of a number of emblems provided by pattern No. 11210, and you've as patriotic a frock, and as fashionable a one, as you could wish.

Style No. 3010 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20.

No. 11210 costs 10 cents extra.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

For a Fourth week-end that's safe and sane from the standpoint of beauty preservation:

Don't venture out without your sun protectives.

Don't forget, during your sun bathing, that your feet are more prone to a quick burn than skin surfaces that are ordinarily more or less exposed. Use your sun filtering preparations generously on the soles of your feet and over the arches if you plan to lie on the beach.

Remember that your hair can get sunburned if you're not careful. If it's bleached or naturally inclined to dryness protect it with a fetching cap or scarf. Spray oil or a protective dressing on it before you go out in the sun and at the end of a day outdoors give it some extra brushing for good measure.

Brief playclothes or swim suits demand that the much exposed skin surfaces be completely free of superfluous hair. When you use a depilatory be sure you follow directions exactly. If you use the razor remember that deodorants or anti-perspirants shouldn't be applied for at least 24 hours afterwards.

If your elbows won't stand the merciless exposure of short sleeves cream them, scrub them, cream them again and finish off with a velvety makeup lotion.

Protect your eyes from the glare of the sun by wearing good sun glasses. You'll not only ward off the squinting that lays the foundation for the dreaded crow's feet but you'll avoid risk of the disagreeable searing that can result from over-exposure. You'll be doing yourself a good turn, too, if you'll remember to bathe the eyes with a good lotion when you return from your out-of-doors jaunt. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Ravinia Hears Brahms Played in New Beauty

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The name of Brahms appeared for the first time last night on 1941 Ravinia programs. Sir Thomas Beecham conducted the Chicago Symphony orchestra in a program built around the Brahms Third Symphony and containing also an overture by Zoltan Kurthy, the "Francesca Da Rimini" fantasy of Tschaikowsky, and excerpts from Debussy's "The Prodigal Son" and Bizet's "Carmen."

The Third Symphony's two most important factors—its epic solidity and its exquisite lyricism—were successfully combined in this performance. The first movement started with an overwhelming drive and passion. The impression was strong of the symphony's tremendous contours being flung boldly and almost savagely into place.

Yet when the time came to soften the general picture any fears which the opening may have aroused proved groundless. Even in the first movement the songlike episodes were gently and lovingly treated, and by the time the second was reached the scene was set for one of the most moving examples of lyricism the season is likely to bring forth.

For this opening theme of the second movement was presented with such sincerity of line and such purity of intonation that a wonderful feeling of utter effortlessness resulted. The melody seemed to be singing along of itself, as completely divorced from musicians and their tone producing mechanisms as from every other earthbound thing.

At the end of this movement, where the music takes on an eloquence and urgency which make everything that has gone before seem almost tentative by comparison, Sir Thomas achieved another superlatively beautiful effect. There was a gradual intensification of tone, perfectly adapted to the rising phrases of the music. The result was something indescribably powerful. It was as if Brahms reached out and took you by the lapel, the better to emphasize the importance of what he was trying to say.

Sir Thomas' feeling for an expressive melodic line glorified the third movement, too. He has a way of getting momentum into phrases without seeming to push them hard. The symphony's final movement, in which the work's essential grandeur of scale is reasserted, was not bigly performed, but it had sufficient dignity and strength.

Two Make Bows

Miss Frances Reid Clow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Clow of Lake Forest, made her debut at a dinner-dance at the Shoreacres club last night given by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow. The debutante and her mother and grandmother received indoors, but the dinner and dancing was outside.

The bud wore a charming gown of pale delphinium blue crêpe with a full skirt of white taffeta that wrapped around and tied on. Her mother also was in blue, a gown of organza and lace. Older friends of the family were invited for dancing following the dinner.

A second Lake Forest debutante of yesterday was Miss Mary Cornelia Aldis. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, received from 5 until 7 o'clock in the gardens of their home. Miss Aldis wore an attractive and fresh looking frock of white marquisette with a design of red flowers. Her mother was in a beige gold crêpe dress.

Mrs. H. J. Campbell Is Seriously Injured When Car Hits Tree

Mrs. Nancy P. L. Campbell of Lake Forest was seriously injured yesterday when she drove into a tree near Lake Forest while trying to chase a bee out of the car. The accident occurred in Knollwood drive, west of Waukegan road, as Mrs. Campbell was returning to her home at 2000 Knollwood circle. Dr. Theodore S. Proxmire said Mrs. Campbell, who is 58 years old, suffered a dislocated hip, fractured pelvic bone, bad compound fracture of the nose, lacerations of the forehead and right eye, and a possible knee fracture. Mrs. Campbell, wife of Attorney Herbert J. Campbell, was taken to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Lucile Jean Learmonth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Learmonth, to John Clayton Bannister took place on June 21 in the First Presbyterian church, South Bend. A reception followed at the Oliver hotel in South Bend. Mr. Bannister, who is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Kimball Bannister of Phoenix, Ariz., has taken his bride on a wedding trip to Phoenix.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Lind of Brookfield announce the marriage of their daughter, Susan, to Theodore Wegryn of Chicago. The wedding took place on June 7 in St. Barbara's church in Brookfield.

Sally's Guests Vote Her First Party 'Swell'

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Yesterday morning 100 boys and girls had the time of their lives watching the gay nonsense which makes up "The Reluctant Dragon."

Because of a change of plans, this new full length Disney film will not open at the Palace theater until next Tuesday, so R-K-O had it screened especially for the youngsters who were my guests.

We saw Baby Weems, the tiny infant who amazed the world with his knowledge; Donald Duck demonstrated how he walks on the screen, Goofy showed us how NOT to ride a horse, and Casey Jr. screamed and whistled along the railroad tracks. We went thru the Walt Disney studios with Robert Benchley, who stopped off to see interesting things so many times that he almost didn't get to see the famous artist.

The youngsters seemed to love the old dragon, who tried and tried to get mad enough to snort fire, but could only produce little smoke rings.

INSTALMENT XXIII.

RUNAWAY.

The next morning Felicity did not appear for breakfast, and going up to see if she was all right, Celia met with a cold reception.

"I'll ring for Jenkins if I want anything, thank you," Felicity told her.

Gloom hung over the house, and Celia went about her duties with the ghastly feeling that she was an intruder. Nobody loved her and she hated herself.

Felicity had something to eat at lunch time on a tray upstairs. Later she came down in jersey and slacks, looking as tho she had not washed, and did some telephoning. When Celia came into the room she spoke rapidly into the mouthpiece. "All right. That's settled then. I won't call you again. Can't talk any more because my jailer is eavesdropping. Good-by."

She banged down the receiver and grinned at Celia in a wicked fashion. "Felicity, dear, please don't be so horrid to me. Is any of this my fault?" Celia pleaded.

"I should think that most of it was, but I don't blame you for being jealous of me. You couldn't help falling in love with Val, but you needn't have pretended you were over it."

Celia went to the window and spoke with her back turned. "As soon as Miss Allison returns, I'll go away. But meanwhile——"

"Meanwhile, you've got to keep your eye on me, of course. Really, Celia, I don't mind a bit whether you go or stay. It can't possibly make a pin's worth of difference to me."

Celia whirled around and faced her.

"Listen to me just a minute. Since Val has told you such a lot about me in connection with himself—did he by any chance tell you how I happened to fall out of love with him?"

"I don't expect you have, for all you say so." Felicity's hard young voice was faintly tinged with pity. "But I do hope you get over it—for your own sake. You can if you try, I'm sure. If you go away somewhere—on a voyage or something."

Felicity continued to remain in her own quarters. The durance was not too vile, since she had her own little sitting room attached. Jenkins was now the go-between and by her she sent down word that she was too ill to see anybody, but not ill enough to require the attendance of a doctor.

Martin was preoccupied and retired to his sanctum, and Celia, exhausted with the strain, went early to bed.

The next day began in the same way, but it had a different ending.

Martin was going to play golf that afternoon and he would have liked Felicity and Celia to come with him, but Felicity wouldn't, so Celia couldn't.

The strain was getting Martin, too. He said he wouldn't be home for dinner, and would probably stay on at the club and have a rubber or two of contract afterwards.

"But I won't be very late," he told Celia. "It's only that I don't want to go completely off my dot. We've got a big job on hand at the office and I need to keep my wits about me if I can."

He told her this over the telephone and she did not complain that she was to be left holding the baby. She was grateful he thought her worthy of the responsibility.

Anyway, so long as Felicity sulked out of sight, it was bearable.

Celia had a solitary lunch and then went into the sunny living room. She had a little sewing to do and there were plenty of books. Or she could step thru one of the French windows and go into the garden if she wanted a breath of air. Not quite so invigorating as a tramp over the links, but better than nothing. It was impossible to pin her mind down to anything, for it was always coming back to Martin, who had been cool and offhanded with her these past two days.

It was in the garden that Stevens found her.

He came running heavily, his fat face shaking with distress.

"Miss Felicity's gone," he said. "She sent Jenkins for a taxi. Jenkins didn't know there might be something wrong until she saw Miss Felicity's dressing bag and the suitcase. Then it was too late."

"Gone——?" Celia echoed in consternation.

"Yes, miss. You see, we were having our dinner when she rang for Jenkins. Otherwise I'd have been about and jolly well stopped it. Sir Martin dropped me a hint this morning. It's that Mr. Quentin, I shouldn't be surprised."

"O, Miss, can't you do something?" she wailed, wringing her hands. "O, if only Sir Martin or Miss Allison was here!"

"If only we had the faintest idea where she'd gone!" Celia added bitterly.

Jenkins' eyes widened.

"You never mentioned it," blustered Stevens.

"I meant to—I thought I did," said Jenkins.

"Shall I get you a taxi, Miss?"

"Yes, please—this instant!" Celia cried. "I'll come along with you so as not to waste any time. Have you got any money?"

Stevens dived into his pocket and produced some loose change.

However, a few minutes had to be wasted. Strange, how in any emergency the oddest things pop into one's head. Or was it only because Celia, in common with every other woman under the sun, would have felt lost without her handbag that she raced upstairs to fetch it? She forgot to bother about her hat. She had on her tweed coat and skirt and the yellow jumper, but it was cold today and a scarf and a pair of gloves would have come in handy, too. She never thought of them.

When finally she was off, she regretted a little that she had not accepted Stevens' offer to come with her. Two would be better than one for hunting a needle in a haystack. Victoria Station is a big place and Felicity had a flying start. She would be there by now; she would have timed herself nicely, too. But of course she would probably have to buy a ticket for wherever she was going.

Celia wondered if Stevens would telephone Martin Stanmore. She hoped not. There wasn't anything he could do from the distance of Hayward's Heath. Celia Ames was the only person who had a dog's chance of doing anything, even if she were lucky enough to catch up with the runaway. And there would be Val to cope with, too.

What was the time? She had no watch, but she caught a glimpse of a clock in the High Street and it told her something, gave her a sort of clew that might be regarded as a hunch.

The afternoon boat train left in about 20 minutes. She tapped on the window and told the driver to hurry.

If her instinct was right, there were five minutes to spare when she reached the station. Anyway, it was long enough to have a look at the boat train. She bought a platform ticket and pushed her way in among the crowd surrounding the barrier.

"Seeing a friend off," she said breathlessly, and the inspector let her thru.

It was a long train and the usual confusion of last minute arrivals, porters racing with luggage, people hanging out of windows, blocking so you couldn't see who else might be in the carriage, and the babble of good-bys and farewell messages.

Snowflake Luncheon Set

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a crocheted luncheon set which is, by all odds, one of the quickest and easiest of the innumerable designs available. It is lacey, dainty, and handsome in its finished state, altho it is comprised of a group of medallions set together with tiny fill-in motifs which completely change the effect of the large design. No crochet worker can afford to overlook this attractive pattern, since handmade luncheon sets are at a premium.

For instructions in crocheting the luncheon doily in snowflake design, No. 496, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Good Morning!

Yes and no to this one.

Yes, to each member of the cast, with emphasis on the crack performances of May Robson and Ronald Reagan. . . . Yes, to a good part of the story.

No, to parts of the tale that drag. And I don't believe that Priscilla Lane's fans will care to see her drunk. She's a nice girl with a nice following and her wholesomeness has always been her greatest asset. . . . True, they've made her pretty and appealing in her unaccustomed cups. But you STILL won't like the idea.

She becomes "a million dollar baby from a 5 and 10 cent store" so to speak, when the fabulously wealthy Miss Wheelwright, learning that thru a crooked deal of HER father, Pamela's family had been robbed of rightful riches and Pamela deprived of her inheritance, determines to right the wrong. . . .

Miss Cornelia hires the able young lawyer, James Amory, to track Pam down. . . . The girl is found demonstrating a vegetable cutter in the basement of a department store, engaged to a temperamental café piano player [Ronald Reagan] who also composes symphonies, and living in a cheap boarding house. . . .

Keeping her identity unknown, the old lady takes a room in the house, meets and learns to love Pamela and wishes on the bewildered child money which she doesn't in the least know what to do with. . . . The young lawyer takes her in hand. . . . The piano player kicks up a rumpus. . . . The maid goes mildly mad and—well ——!

You don't believe half of what you see and hear, but the acting is all excellent, action is fast and often funny and, so, the film stacks up as satisfactory hot weather entertainment.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

by John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 3.—Just before the big USO blowout at the bowl, a junior leaguer from downtown braced Tyrone Power outside the 20th-Fox commissary and asked him to buy some tickets for the show. Ty, who had contributed important money to the fund, asked the lass how many she thought he should buy.

"O, half a dozen," she said. So Ty offered a $20 bill and she couldn't make change. "Tell you what," he suggested. "I'll be back at work after lunch and you come over to stage 6 and I'll have your money." Carefully he explained how to get to stage 6. The girl took it all in and said: "And whom shall I ask for?"

An agent cooking a deal recently had the notion that Orson Welles was the right man for the job. He talked his client into having a chat with Orson. It was quite a session. Welles became interested in the project and his quick mind turned up a number of fine suggestions. The agent turned to his client and exulted, "What did I tell you? Did you ever see a man so bereft of ideas?"

Perfect sideline: Robert Mitchell, Henry Fonda's stand-in, occupies his free time selling Smithfield hams to actors. . . . Burns Mantle says it's doubtful that Lunt and Fontanne will be able to take "There Shall Be No Night" on tour next season because the Finns' joining up with Hitler has loused up the play. Well, maybe they could take it out anyhow by retitling it "Night Must Fall." . . . Betty Grable, still ill, gets another week off and goes to Coronado. . . . T. Power and Annabella are still figuring on doing "Liliom" in an eastern summer theater. . . . There'll be a convention of prison wardens in San Francisco next month—and I'll give you one guess whom they've asked to address them . . . Humphrey Bogart! . . . Jim Cagney, George Brent, and Dennis Morgan get the leads in the Warners' "Captains of the Clouds," which will be the technicolor story of the Canadian air force. Picture will be shot on location in Canada and Jim leaves Martha's Vineyard in a few days. This puts back his projected film on the life and works of George M. Cohan—but the story on this one hasn't yet been ironed out.

Biggest studio construction job the Warners have undertaken in years is the setting for "King's Row." The picture can't be made on location because the action takes place in a small town between 1890 and 1903.

"It's an even tougher problem than we had on 'Gone with the Wind,'" says William Cameron Menzies, production designer on both that picture and the new one. "There were very few people living who remembered just what Atlanta looked like in the Civil war, so we had some latitude in using backgrounds. But there are millions who know all about small towns of 40 or 50 years ago, so every last detail of our sets must be authentic."

Paul Gallico, having finished his stint at Metro, heads for his Pennsylvania farm by way of the northwest and Canada. He may do another Hiram Halliday serial about Canada. . . . George Stevens may go to Metro to direct K. Hepburn and S. Tracy in the newspaper flicker, "Woman of the Year."

Summer Price Shaving Starts Shopping Rush

BY REA SEEGER.

All out for the midsummer rush of special prices on everything for any wardrobe! It's the time to track down that particular suit, dress, coat, hat or ensemble that captured your fancy a while back. It's a grand time to replenish a wilting summer wardrobe with a couple of extra dresses to pull you thru the remainder of the season, for there isn't anything in the shops and stores that doesn't flaunt a reduced price . . . bargains everywhere!

Accessories, such as gloves, bags to match, lingerie, cool summer negligees and decorative house coats, play clothes, spectator sports and active sports outfits, smooth summer flannel coats, short or long, evening coats, capes and stunning long evening wraps, these all are hanging about on easy-to-see racks specially tagged with some of the most tempting reductions ever offered. It's one time of the summer when even the lass who lives in the country dashes to town to snap up the bargains. The early shopper gets the best breaks, of course.

Every summer dance and dinner dress also is included in the sales excitement.

Oust Teachers Inimical to U. S., Educators Vote

Boston, Mass., July 3 (AP).—A purging of the American teaching profession of educators found "inimical to the best interests of our country," was recommended today by the National Education association, major teachers' organization in the nation with a membership of more than 200,000 men and women from grade school instructors to university presidents.

Voting to set up the framework of a national commission of 60 educators whose duties would include investigation of "alleged subversive teaching," delegates to the N. E. A.'s 79th convention further implemented their action by adopting a resolution opposing the appointment of any teacher "who advocates, or who is a member of any organization that advocates, changing the form of government of the United States" by other than constitutional means.

In appropriating $20,000 to support the work of the commission in the "defense of democracy thru education," the organization designated one half of that sum for combatting by radio, press, and other means "various groups opposed to education" and called for the maintenance of public support of education, despite defense spending.

According to CULBERTSON

(Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.)

How many players, I wonder, at the end of a long, grueling session, have rubbed the salve of self-praise on their wounds in this fashion: "Well, all the breaks were against me tonight! I don't think I threw away a single trick by bad play." Sometimes these remarks are made audibly, even vociferously. Just the other evening they were made by the player who had been declarer in the following hand:

East, dealer.

NORTH

♥ A 9 5 3

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Double
Pass	1 spade	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass	Pass

Attention is called to North's single spade raise, following his own takeout double. Many readers may think that North, with almost five honor-tricks, should have given a stronger raise, such as three spades. Actually, North's bidding was perfect. He had forced his partner to show a suit and for all he [North] knew, South might have a worthless hand with only a four-card spade suit. By doubling for a takeout and then raising the forced response, he urged South to bid again. South's hand was far from robust, but, with a king and two queens, and a five-card suit instead of the four-card suit he might have had, he was quite correct in accepting the urge. His subsequent play, however, left something to be desired.

West opened the heart king. Dummy's ace won, and the spade queen was laid down, losing to West's blank ace. West cashed his heart trick, and declarer soon found that he had to lose another trump trick and the diamond king, thus going down one.

Declarer had committed a very common error. The opening bidder, West, was practically marked with the spade ace; surely with all the top cards in declarer's sight, West's bid was light enough even with that card. There was, of course, no evidence that the spade ace was blank, but this was a possibility that should have been both considered and feared. Declarer could well afford to lose a diamond trick in addition to one heart and one trump. The logical line of play, then, was to lose that diamond trick in such a way that an entry could be created into the closed hand.

After winning with the heart ace, declarer should have led a low diamond from dummy, with the intention of playing the nine-spot. East might have put up the king but, whether or not he did, declarer's diamond queen would have become an entry to permit a trump lead toward the Q-J. Later, declarer could have ruffed a heart as a second entry whereby to pick up East's long trump. With a spade lead toward dummy, the contract would have become a laydown.

RUSH MEDICAL SCHOOL MERGED WITH ILLINOIS U.

Presbyterian Hospital to Join with University.

Rush Medical college and the Presbyterian hospital were joined with the University of Illinois in an agreement signed yesterday. The agreement ends several years of negotiations between the institutions and the University of Chicago, with which Rush had been associated since 1924.

Joining of the 104 year old Rush, its central free dispensary, and the affiliation of the 58 year old Presbyterian hospital with the University of Illinois' colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy, and its research and educational hospitals and institutes is said to have created one of the world's leading medical centers.

Rush Name to Be Preserved.

The Rush college name will be preserved, with members of its staff joining the Illinois faculty as "Rush professors." Members of the Presbyterian hospital staff will become members of the university college of medicine clinical staff, and future appointments to the hospital staff will be made from persons nominated by the university.

Under the agreement, signed by A. C. Willard, president of the university, and James Cleary, president of the board of trustees, for the university, and John McKinlay, president of the board of managers of Presbyterian hospital, the property of the college, hospital, and dispensary will remain under control of those groups in order to carry out trust and other agreements.

Adds Leading Men to Staff.

Cleary, in commenting on the merger, said:

"The Presbyterian hospital affiliation immediately places on the faculty of the University of Illinois medical college a number of the leading men in their fields. These are additions to and not replacements of the university staff.

"The University of Illinois medical college for some time has had the largest enrollment of any medical school in the world, and in the Cook County hospital it had available the largest hospital in the world. The university's research and educational hospitals and institutes are world leaders. Now Presbyterian hospital gives the university a top private hospital for use of its staff."

5,000 JOIN IN FINAL CATHEDRAL RITES FOR IGNACE PADEREWSKI

New York, July 3 (AP).—A solemn pontifical mass of requiem, sung in the music he loved, and attended by almost 5,000 men, women, and children from all faiths, occupations and walks of life, was said today over the mortal remains of Ignace Jan Paderewski, famed pianist and former premier of Poland, at St. Patrick's cathedral.

Statesmen in tophats and tails and humble laborers, people from many lands watched solemnly as Archbishop Francis J. Spellman and high church dignitaries performed the rites.

"This is not a day of sadness," the archbishop said in the first eulogy he has delivered during his 25 years of priesthood. "It is a day of triumph and rejoicing, because the inspiration of his life and his character will remain with us."

Silent throngs bowed as the horse drawn caisson on which the coffin rested was led thru the streets by slow marching troops, Americans and Polish veterans, to Pennsylvania station for shipment to Washington.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Arlington Park is all set to entertain a crowd of 50,000 this afternoon with an Independence day program headed by the $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap. The stands will be filled from roof to terrace, but the layout of the big plant is such that nearly every spectator will get a clear view of the horses. Remembering that last year's Fourth of July program drew a tax paid attendance of 46,000, Arlington officials have made arrangements to open up the infield to relieve congestion.

Today's crowd and betting handle may turn out to be the largest in the Chicago area since the 1920s. On the basis of a steady rise in the last two seasons it seems probable that only an exceptionally bad break in the weather could keep the fans home today.

It's a Wide Open Race.

The Stars and Stripes handicap has drawn a field that assures a great divergence of opinion among the bettors. This mile and an eighth run shapes up as one of the most wide open races of the season.

Many believe that Gallahadion, winner of last year's Kentucky Derby, is sharpened up for one of those excellent performances which he delivers from time to time. He's the kind of a horse which gets up to his best form slowly and doesn't stay there long, but when he's at his peak he can run with the best of them.

Others think that Shot Put, distance champion of 1940, will be the horse to beat, now that he's been relieved of that heavy impost which stopped him in the Lincoln handicap. Tho he has top weight of 118 pounds in the Stars and Stripes, that's a burden which he can tote easily.

Distance Will Suit Viscounty.

Viscounty, which floundered around in bad footing when he failed in the La Salle handicap at Lincoln Fields, may find today's running strip more to his liking and the distance will suit him, too.

Sun Lover will be racing on the track where he delivered one of the best performances of his career. That occurred on Classic day of 1939 when he ran neck and neck with Challedon thru the last furlong of the Classic after both of them had passed Johnstown.

Technician, which has run some disappointing races earlier in the season, also will get a play since he gave indications of returning to good condition by winning an allowance event of a mile in the sharp time of 1:36 last week.

Whirlaway Goes on Exhibition.

The invaders from the east also will get a play. These include Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Afghanistan, Hal Price Headley's Third Covey and Warren Wright's Dandy Fox. The latter already has won in a preparatory race at Arlington. Third Covey won two stakes at Suffolk Downs and Afghanistan scored impressively in an overnight allowance event at Aqueduct.

Calumet Farm's Whirlaway, 3 year old champion which is being pointed for the Arlington Classic, will be out for an exhibition run between the fourth and fifth races today. He will prance past the stands to give the fans an opportunity to size up his good points, after which an exercise boy will gallop him around the track and blow him out fast thru the stretch.

General Manager John D. Jackson has announced that in line with Arlington Park's policy there will be no increase in admission price today or on any other big afternoon of the meeting.

He'll Get Heavy Backing

Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Gallahadion, Kentucky Derby winner of 1940, is one of a strong field which will run in the $10,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park today.

White Sox Look for Fireworks Today to End Batting Slump

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who went to Detroit last evening for a double header with the Tigers this afternoon, aren't exactly happy in view of their recent batting miseries, but at least they are hopeful. Didn't they do things in a big way after the Fourth of July last season? They think lightning can strike twice in the same place and same way. Hence their hope.

A few minutes in the presence of James Dykes, the manager, is sufficient to create an idea that he isn't trying to subsist on the hope from which his boys are drawing comfort. The manager admits he's a bit punchy as the result of weeks of light run production. His attitude is that if they get back to hitting at their normal pace they'll win some ball games and if they don't hit he's going to continue being a very unhappy man.

Dietrich Injured Again.

The Sox situation as a whole wasn't improved any yesterday by Bill Dietrich's personal reports on just how he felt as the result of happenings in Wednesday night's affair which he lost to the Tigers, 1 to 0. His left leg was very sore above the knee, the outcome of a collision which sent Pat Mullin, Detroit outfielder, to the hospital. Bill's right thumb, which was plunked by a ball when he was trying to bunt in the eighth, was worse than when it was injured several weeks ago by a batted ball.

Dietrich, who will have to take another vacation, now is one up on Bill Knickerbocker in the hospital sweepstakes. Knickerbocker, who expects to be back on second base today, has been out three times, once with an injured wrist and twice as the result of being spiked. Dietrich can tie this with his two time thumb mishap and his leg injury. His extra one goes back to opening day when Bob Feller plunked him on the right elbow. Despite that blow Dietrich stuck it out to beat Feller and the Indians.

A Problem for Baker.

Thornton Lee and John Rigney will perform for the Sox today and Del Baker, the Tiger manager, will have a conflicting interest in the former. Baker must manage the American leaguers in the All-Star game Tuesday and Lee is one of his prospective pitchers. If Lee is impressive today he may beat the Tigers, which isn't what Baker wants. And if Lee isn't impressive it will give the Tiger boss some extra All-Star worries. For the Tigers tomorrow, Baker has nominated Tommy Bridges and Hal Newhouse as starting pitchers.

The Sox will start back to Chicago tonight, and tomorrow will take on the Cleveland Indians in the opener of a two game series. After the All-Star game pause of Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, the eastern teams will begin to roll into Comiskey park, the first being the Senators, who have a night date here next Thursday.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Claude Passeau yesterday worked handsomely with arm and bat to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 2 to 1, and drop them to a first place tie with the Brooklyn Dodgers. In addition to holding the Cardinals to five hits, and no runs until some pinch hit business clicked for the Cards in the eighth inning, Claude rallied after twice striking out, to drive home Lou Stringer with the winning run.

The contest was played before the Cubs' new seal brown and green background, scientifically toned to soothe and sharpen batsmen's vision. Each side made five hits under the new color scheme and banishment of white shirted gentry, the Cubs' five, four singles and a double, being made off Max Lanier.

A Lanier Brainstorm.

Both the Cub runs, like the three with which they won their last previous victory, 3 to 2, were unearned but each of the scores involved essential hitting. In the fourth inning Clyde McCullough reached first when Johnny Hopp dropped his drive and went to third on Bill Nicholson's single to right. Babe Dahlgren fanned, then Dom Dallessandro tapped to Lanier.

Lanier apparently had McCullough trapped going for home but had a copybook momentary brainstorm. Instead of throwing to Don Padgett at the plate for an easy play, he whirled and threw to Martin Marion in an attempt to launch a double play to end the inning. But he had hesitated too long. He forced Nicholson at second all right, but the relay to first was much too late to sink Dallessandro. So the Cubs were ahead, 1 to 0.

Stringer Races Home.

Stringer opened the seventh with a grounder which Creepy Crespi fumbled. Crespi might not have got the rapid Lou even if he had held the ball but he drew an error. Bob Sturgeon sacrificed, then Passeau lined the Cubs' fifth and last hit, a single to left, on which Stringer raced home.

Passeau, who won his seventh victory from the Giants on June 23, 1 to 0, lost his chance to make his eighth success a shutout also, thuswise: After Marion had executed his third strikeout to get the eighth under way, Coaker Triplett batted for Eddie Lake and came up with the fourth St. Louis hit, a single to center.

Estel Crabtree batted for Lanier and was thrown out by Passeau, Triplett stopping at second. Crespi singled to right, scoring Triplett, and took second when Nicholson made a foolish throw toward the plate. Terry Moore couldn't send Crespi home with the tying run. He filed to Nicholson.

On Independence Day.

On Independence day, O, may we not,
With beating drums alone or trumpets' blare,
Commemorate the past, but in the quiet
Precincts of the heart appraise those things we share;
True gifts of worth, the fruits of sacrifice,
By other hands bequeathed; too long have we Accepted as our due, as safe and sure

But now within a year's swift passing span
Have heartsick thousands heard the fateful knell
Of freedom sound; and learned that it belongs alone
To those who know its worth and guard it well.
So while we yet have time let us forbear
All strife for selfish ends that we may be United in one purpose and one prayer,
To guard, to keep, to love, our liberty.

In Any American Heart.

To say "I am an American"
Means more than a flag to wave;
There is something that goes much deeper,
Something essential and grave;
To say "I am an American"
Means something a lot more rare
Than merely to stand whenever the band
Strikes up a martial air.

Yes, there's something besides the waving of flags
Or cheering the blare of a band
That makes the crowd so loyally proud
To belong to this fair, fair land.
To say "I am an American"
Means I'm ready to die or to live,
Whatever the tasks that my country asks,
I'm ready and willing to give.

To say "I am an American"
Means I am untrammeled, free,
Born to stand on the sacred strand
Of these shores of liberty.
The waving of flags and the cheering of bands
Are just the external part
Of that living breath that shall know no death
In any American heart!

TODD AND WARD REACH 2D ROUND IN WESTERN GOLF

Marvin Wins Last 4 Holes to Beat Bliss.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 3.—Harry Todd, the medalist, and Marvin [Bud] Ward, the defending champion, today moved into the second round of the 42d Western amateur golf tournament via highly contrasting victories over the tilted terrain of the Broadmoor course.

Todd, the silent Texan who was dubbed Gabby by Bing Crosby earlier in the week, entered tomorrow morning's second round with a 7 and 6 rout of Lyman Wright, local poloist and cow puncher, in which he was one over par for the 12 holes required. Harry thus indicated that his medal winning performance of yesterday, his 1939 capture of the Western, and his amateur leading performance in the National Open last month were not fanciful.

Bud Goes to Work.

But, as usual, it was Ward, one of golf's greatest competitors, who supplied the gallery with its top thrill of the day. The former national champion, who won the Western in his first time out last year in Minneapolis was three down and four to go against such a talented rival as Rodney Bliss of Omaha, twice runner-up for this championship. To most of the bunion brigade who had trudged after him it appeared that the champion was being readied for an early exit. To those who have seen Ward in action before, however, this was the time for him to move, and move he did, by winning the last four holes, two of them with birdies, for a one up decision.

Par—Out	454	434	344—35
Ward—Out	444	534	345—36
Bliss—Out	454	533	334—34
Par—In	444	344	354—35—70
Ward—In	343	454	253—33—69
Bliss—In	344	345	364—36—70

Brownell Is Routed.

Two favorites were eliminated in the first round. Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, who takes his golf as seriously as he did tennis when he was world's champion in that department, fired a 69, one under par, in winning a 2 and 1 match from able Marshall Carlson of the University of Toledo. Chick Evans of Chicago, eight times Western champion, bowed out, 4 and 3, to Morris Norton of Wichita Falls, Tex.

Results follow:

UPPER BRACKET.

Marvin Ward, Spokane, Wash., defeated Rodney Bliss, Omaha, Neb., 1 up.
Bill Tucker, Dallas, defeated Bud Plants, Colorado college, 1 up.

URGE TRUSTEES OF ILLINOIS TO RETAIN COACH

Resolution Passed in 'Landslide.'

One hundred strong, they met at noon in Mandel's grill and by an overwhelming majority, passed a resolution directing their board of directors to urge Zuppke's retention to the board of trustees of the University of Illinois.

One by one, Illini alumni, young, middle aged and old, rose to their feet and made strong defenses of the 62 year old football coach, who is fighting a move to obtain his resignation. It was such a strong pro-Zuppke crowd that finally D. L. Bowly, president of the club, invited any supporters of Wendell [Weenie] Wilson, Illini athletic director, who might be present, to speak in his behalf. There was no response.

Trustees Meet Soon.

The board of trustees of the university will meet at an unannounced date between July 11 and 15 at which time the seven man athletic board is scheduled to make recommendations to the trustees concerning the future of Zuppke and Wilson at Illinois.

The Chicago Illini club is the largest and most influential group of University of Illinois alumni. During the meeting, Frank Thorne, member of the club, said Zuppke had written him, expressing his appreciation for the club's support and declaring that without its aid, his dismissal might be expected.

Allan E. Bulley, a director of the club, said that he had information that the meeting of the Illini athletic board on June 12 was called for the purpose of asking Wilson to resign. He charged that a few weeks ago, Wilson, when answering a suggestion that he resign, replied that he was the late George Huff's choice to succeed him and that he would not quit.

Bulley Fires a Volley.

"I know that Wilson was not Huff's first choice," said Bulley. "And neither was he the second choice. The first two men did not accept. I have taken pains to find out what has been happening in the Illinois athletic department since Huff passed on in 1936. I have been distressed at the infantile handling of the sports situation down there. Until Huff's death there was no friction, visible at least, between the athletic board and Zuppke.

"In 1938, shortly before the annual football banquet, Wilson came to Chicago, walked into a certain office and said: 'I now have Zuppke's resignation in my pocket. I am going over and hire Red Grange as assistant football coach.' When asked who the new coach would be, he said it would be himself.

"Some of the trustees or officials at Illinois must have known of this move to oust Zuppke. Wilson didn't do all this by himself. Some one was backing him. The faculty group [three professors and Wilson] on the athletic board, certain trustees and perhaps President Arthur Cutts Willard, were conscious of this pressure on Zuppke."

Squash Old Resolution.

William T. McNeill, treasurer of the Illini club, withdrew a resolution he had made and which the club members were to have discussed at yesterday's meeting. This resolution expressed the club's confidence in the board of trustees of the university in making proper disposition of the troubled athletic situation.

"Before any discussion starts today I want to make it clear that this resolution in no way was intended

Ted Williams Hits 16th Home Run.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 3 (AP).—Lefty Grove won his 299th game today as he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 5 to 2 victory over the Athletics. One more triumph for Old Mose and he'll be the 12th pitcher in major league history to hit the coveted 300 mark.

Jim Tabor's three run double in the first inning gave Grove a lead and Ted Williams' two run homer in the eighth clinched the game.

A gust of wind and Shortstop Al Brancato's dreaminess set up Boston's big first inning. After Lou Finney had singled, Williams batted a high fly to left center which the wind blew back into Brancato's territory. Brancato didn't see it and it went for another single. Jimmy Foxx then walked and Tabor's double cleared the bases. Score:

BOB ROSECRANCE SCORES, 3 AND 2, IN JUNIOR FINAL

Bob Rosecrance of Rockford celebrated his 18th birthday yesterday by becoming the first two-time winner in the history of the Chicago Junion Open golf tournament. Rosecrance won the title by defeating Fred Fassnacht of Taft High school, 3 and 2, at Nordic Hills. He won the 1940 championship at Itasca.

The final match started off as a see-saw affair. Rosecrance and Fassnacht reached the sixth all even after the lead changed hands three times. Rosecrance then won three holes in a row to reach the turn, three up. The Chicagoan bounced back to win the 10th and 11th to narrow the gap to one hole. They halved the next two holes in par figures, but Rosecrance won two out of the last three holes.

MULLIN LOST TO TIGERS; OPERATE ON COLLAR BONE

Pat Mullin, the Detroit Tigers' hard hitting young outfielder, underwent a collar bone operation yesterday which the staff of the University of Chicago clinic reported probably would keep him out of the game for the rest of the season.

Mullin, who was playing center field in place of the injured Barney McCosky and hitting the ball at a .345 pace, suffered a dislocated right shoulder in a game with the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night, when he collided with Bill Dietrich, White Sox pitcher, at first base.

Cubs, Cards to Start Lefties in Games Today

This afternoon's double header in Wrigley field is to be a carnival of lefties, at least at the start of the two contests. Lawrence French and Vern Olsen will begin for the Cubs, and Ernie White and Clyde Shoun will be similarly trusted by their Cardinal employers.

Play will be halted at Wrigley field this afternoon at 4 o'clock and will not start until the conclusion of President Roosevelt's speech, which will be amplifield on the public announcing system.

The Cubs will leave tonight for Pittsburgh where they will engage the Pirates in a single game tomorrow afternoon and a double header Sunday. Then they'll go to Syracuse for an exhibition game Monday night. Thursday will find them in Boston for the third 1942 series at Braves field.

Gus Mancuso, veteran catcher who has done most of the work this season, is down with a sore knee.

Eleanor Dudley Takes College Golf Final, 4 and 2

Columbus, O., July 3 (AP).—The nation's golfing co-eds crowned their first queen today—Eleanor Dudley of Chicago, who was graduated only a few days ago by the University of Alabama.

The 23 year old Chicagoan, former Illinois and Western junior champion, won the title with a 4 and 2 victory over Eddell Wortz of Fort Smith, Ark., freshman at Stephens college, in the 18 hole final of the first women's national intercollegiate tournament on the Ohio State university course.

The outcome finally hinged on Miss Dudley's superior hitting power. Miss Wortz, with all her finesse and putting ability, could not overcome the tremendous distance advantage gained by her strong foe.

Miss Wortz, Arkansas state champion, who is only 5 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 110 pounds, started well with birdies on the first two holes, but they were all square at six.

The next three were halved in par figures, keeping them even, and one under par at the turn. The new champion spurted on the back nine to annex the first three holes, but then she four-putted the short 13th for a double-bogey five, and lost the hole.

Miss Dudley went three up on No. 14 with a par, and they halved the next in birdies. The new champion's par four on No. 16 was good enough to win the hole and the championship. Miss Wortz, 19 years old, was three over par at the finish, while Miss Dudley was two under even figures.

Zuppke Gets Alumni Vote of Confidence

to mean we would tacitly agree to Zuppke's removal and Wilson's retention. I personally think Zuppke should stay and Wilson go.

"The intent of this resolution was to give the athletic board the 'go sign' to fire Wilson or anything it wants to with him. I am withdrawing it now because the athletic board might get the idea this alumni group is against Zuppke because the wording in the resolution is not clear."

The motion to extend a vote of confidence to Zuppke was made by Edward A. Dieterle, president of the club in 1933. An amendment recommending the dismissal of Wilson was withdrawn after a lively discussion.

Directors Approve Vote.

Winfield Vail, basketball letter man at Illinois two decades ago, declared against the alumni club going on record either for or against Zuppke or Wilson. He was among the less than half dozen dissenters when a vote was taken on Dieterle's motion.

The club's board of directors, at a special meeting following the luncheon, approved the resolution, as follows:

"At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Illini club of Chicago, at which a quorum was present, pursuant to and proper notice, on motion duly made and seconded it was unanimously

"Resolved, that the board of directors of the Illini club of Chicago, in accordance with the recommendation of the members of the club in attendance at a meeting held July 3, 1941, express to the board of trustees of the University of Illinois its complete confidence in Robert C. Zuppke and urge his retention as head football coach."

Trustee President Silent.

James Cleary, a director of the club, declined to vote because he also is president of the university's board of trustees, to whom the resolution will be sent.

Officers and members of the board of directors who voted to approve the resolution were:

VIVACITY ARRIVES FOR LASSIE AT ARLINGTON PARK

Fillies Head Program at Track Tomorrow.

Another challenger for tomorrow's Lassie stakes showed up yesterday at Arlington Park with the arrival of Salubria stable's Vivacity, trained by W. J. Hirsch. On the grounds and awaiting the bugle call for this important event for juvenile fillies are Afred G. Vanderbilt's Petrify, John Hay Whitney's Court Manners, Valdina farm's Valdina Melia, Milky Way farm's My Choice, T. H. Heard Jr.'s Draeh, and Hal Price Headley's Lotopoise. A number of others have been prepped for the Lassie and the field of starters probably will include several besides those named above.

The rivalry between the two Equipoise fillies, Headley's Lotopoise and Whitney's Court Manners, is keen. The sore mouth developed by C. V. Whitney's undefeated filly, Mackerel, removes from the Lassie another brilliant daughter of Equipoise. Mackerel had been shipped to Arlington specifically for tomorrow's feature.

As the first division of the Arlington Park trainers' and riders' award contest passed the half way mark Wednesday there were several changes which tightened up the competition.

Dave Womeldorff, leading American trainer of 1940, pulled up within a point and a half of Howard Wells when he saddled two winners for Mrs. Emil Denemark. The three leading trainers were Howard Wells, 34½; Womeldorff, 33, and Ross Higdon, 27.

Johnny Adams went back into the lead among the jockeys, his 5 points for victory in the first race giving him 49½ to Wendell Eads' 48, who blanked out all day. Willie Garner, with a first and a third, pulled up to 35 to close the gap in third place.

The apprentice division saw a new leader as Willie Strickler's victory on Court Dance brought him up to 26 points against Jimmy George's 25. Jimmy Berger got 6 points to displace Freddy Farrell in the leading three with 24 points.

The first division of the contest closes with the races of Friday, July 11. The three leading trainers will receive $1,000, $500, and $250, respectively, and the three leaders in each branch of the riding contest will receive $500, $250, and $125.

Jessurun and Milt Aron to Meet on July 14

Andre Jessurun, competent New York middleweight, who holds a decision over Steve Belloise, last night was signed to meet Milt Aron in a 10 round bout in Marigold outdoor arena July 14. The match is one of four 10 round events on the program, the others bringing together Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., lightweight, and George Zengaras; Willie Joyce, Gary 135 pounder, and Harvey Dubs; and Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland heavyweight, and Lem Franklin. . . . Lee Oma, Detroit light heavyweight, and Frank Greene have been matched in a six round contest in Marigold Gardens Monday. The card is topped by a 10 round encounter involving Johnny Colan, New York 160 pound fighter, and Johnny Tretter. Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor middleweight, is paired with Johnny Rozina of Milwaukee in a four rounder.

U. S. 'TAX NOTE' ISSUE TO GO ON SALE IN MONTH

Called Aid to Saving for Bigger Levy.

The treasury department yesterday announced a plan for prepayment of income and excess profits taxes thru interest bearing tax notes. Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. said in Washington, D. C., that the notes will be on sale thru banks beginning Aug. 1.

Morgenthau said that the primary purpose of the new issue was to make it convenient for individuals and corporations to meet the heavy taxes in the new tax bill by paying gradually from current income and savings. The plan also will eliminate some of the treasury's temporary borrowing necessary before taxes begin coming in, he said. The interest, or premium, the purchaser will receive as an inducement will be offset approximately by the decreased borrowing expense to the treasury, he indicated.

Range Up to $100,000.

Two types of tax notes will be offered. One will be in denominations of $25, $50, and $100. The other, for large taxpayers, will be issued in denominations of $100, $500, $1,000, $10,000, and $100,000.

The premium on the smaller amounts will be 16 cents per $100 for each month between the time the note is bought and when it is turned in on taxes. The rate on the larger will be 4 cents per $100. The interest is payable only in the form of a tax credit.

The notes are applicable only to income and excess profits levies and can be redeemed only by the treasury. They will be nontransferable, but will be redeemable for cash, with no interest paid in that instance. It will be possible to use the notes to make payments in quarterly instalments as well as for a full year.

Reserve Banks Devise Plan.

Morgenthau said the federal reserve banks were responsible to a large extent for developing the plan. The reserve banks will be the only sales agencies outside the treasury, but local banks will be authorized to accept applications of purchase on behalf of the regional reserve banks.

A. T. Sihler, assistant vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said the treasury is planning to issue a new series of notes the first of each year. Each will mature in two years, according to the plan.

The tax anticipation plan follows generally the service recently offered depositors by banks to soften the blow of next year's stiff taxes. The banks have instituted special accounts, similar to Christmas savings clubs, in which the depositor accumulates funds by payment at regular intervals to meet his tax bill by the time it is due.

SALES OF STORES IN 7TH RESERVE AREA UP SHARPLY

Sales of the larger department stores in the seventh [Chicago] federal reserve district during the week ended June 28 increased 24 per cent over the same week a year ago for the largest gain since April 12, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Chicago sales for the week rose 16 per cent over 1940.

Compared with the preceding week, district sales were 1 per cent higher and Chicago volume showed an upturn of approximately the same amount. For the four weeks ended June 28, district sales increased 13 per cent and Chicago 7 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Bank Clearings Thru U. S. Top 7 Billions for Week

New York, July 3 (AP).—Bank clearings at 23 cities, as compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, totaled $7,204,598,000 in the week ended Wednesday, an increase of 16.1 per cent over $6,204,614,000 in the comparable week a year ago. In the preceding week clearings amounted to $6,246,217,000. Clearings at Chicago totaled $433,400,000, a gain of 30.9 per cent over a year ago. New York volume was $4,064,966, a gain of 9.1 per cent.

Strike Averted at Cartridge Plant in Alton

Alton, Ill., July 3 [Special].—The Western Cartridge company agreed late today to enter negotiations with the AFL chemical workers' union Saturday on condition that the union call off a strike of workers at the company's smokeless powder unit scheduled for midnight Sunday.

The settlement plan was first announced in Washington, D. C., by the defense mediation board which had taken keen interest in the dispute because the company is one of the country's largest manufacturers of small arms ammunition and holds millions of dollars of orders.

The board said that William Green, AFL president, had agreed in Washington to recommend that the union accept the company's proposal and end its threat of production stoppage.

The plants here employ 6,500 workers, 550 of whom are in the smokeless power division.

COAL PARLEYS REVIVED

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The United Mine Workers [CIO] and southern soft coal operators revived their dormant contract negotiations yesterday and dropped hints an agreement was in prospect. John L. Lewis, UMW president, talked over with the operators some of the problems still in the way of a contract, and agreed to another meeting today in Washington, D. C.

Informed sources said there was a strong possibility that the new turn in events would avert a strike in the southern fields scheduled for next Tuesday unless a contract is signed by then.

The new prospects for settlement of the long southern coal dispute developed as miners in the entire Appalachian region began a five day vacation, their first paid vacation in history.

Strike at Navy Yard.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Twenty AFL pile drivers struck at the navy yard, holding up work on a $450,000 destroyer dock. They objected to employment of a nonunion man to attach towing chains to the piles.

The National Defense Mediation board summoned representatives of the International Harvester company, Chicago, and the Farm Equipment Workers' Organizing committee [CIO] to a meeting in Washington next Tuesday to hear the report of a board investigator on the strike of 13,250 workers at four Harvester plants in January and February. A back to work agreement was reached on April 2 with the understanding that the board would conduct a fact-finding investigation into the dispute over union recognition, wages, and piece work rates.

DETROIT—The Briggs Manufacturing company's Meldrum avenue plant operated normally again after an interruption that began Tuesday. The company said the men left their jobs because the management refused to pay for time lost the day before when paint shop workers quit the plant, claiming it was too hot to work.

WILLIAM GREEN CALLS ON LABOR TO GIVE U. S. ALL AID IN ARMS DRIVE

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special].—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today appointed a seven man national defense committee, and called on it "to make voluntary coöperation of labor with the government so effective as to destroy all pressure for compulsory service." Matthew Woll, an AFL vice president, was appointed committee chairman.

Green urged central labor unions in 795 cities to form similar committees. The program he outlined for joint endeavor included providing an adequate labor supply for armament industries, promoting jobs for other workers in civilian production, collecting and disseminating information with regard to priorities, and promoting union coöperation with the federal employment service and other government agencies in training men for specific armament jobs.

The committees are also asked to help maintain the balance between wages and incomes distributed to other groups contributing to production, and to prepare plans for full time employment after the emergency.

CHICAGO BANKS' DEPOSITS REACH HISTORIC LEVEL

Business Loans Are Highest Since '32.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Chicago banks have more deposits than at any other time in their history, and the combined volume of their loans to business is the largest since March 30, 1932, the banks disclosed yesterday in response to calls for statements of their condition as of June 30.

An increase in business activity since the banks last reported about three months ago was indicated by the trend in loans and discounts. Several of the banks reported that these items were the largest on record, but that was not the case with some of the largest institutions.

The increased use of borrowed money by industry reflected the quickening of production in an effort to fill armament orders and meet civilian demand for goods which broadened as pay rolls and employment rose, bankers said.

Total deposits of all Chicago banks at the end of June amounted to $4,449,404,000, compared with $4,107,990,000 at the time of the preceding call of April 4, and with $3,961,207,000 on June 29, 1940. The former record was the $4,177,846,000 reported for Dec. 31, 1940.

Loans and discounts of all Chicago banks increased to $995,992,000, from $915,549,000 three months earlier, and $720,226,000 a year earlier. The most recent total was the largest since March 30, 1932.

Cash resources increased, amounting to $1,716,898,000, against $1,438,300,000 three months ago, but were a little smaller than a year ago, when the total was $1,765,799,000.

Among the banks reporting record deposits were the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, the First National Bank of Chicago, the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Northern Trust company, the City National Bank and Trust company, and American National Bank and Trust company.

Surpass Former Peaks.

Harris Trust, City National, and American National were among the banks whose loans surpassed their former peaks.

The large downtown banks showed a uniform upward movement of total deposits and of loans and discounts, as compared both with the preceding call and with the figures of a year earlier. Their holdings of United States government securities, however, did not all shift in the same direction, some of the banks having reduced these holdings from amounts held three months ago. Such holdings were larger than a year earlier by sizable margins.

Continental's total deposits, up to an all time high level of $1,609,638,000 on June 30, were the largest ever reported by any Chicago bank. The figure compared with $1,510,025,800 on April 4, 1941, and $1,421,459,000 on June 29, 1940. Loans and discounts rose to $248,168,000, from $213,975,000 three months earlier and $156,347,000 a year earlier. The bank held $794,436,000 of United States government securities, against $799,995,000 and $645,413,000.

Indicated Profit Falls.

Indicated earnings of the Continental for the first six months of this year were $7,682,672, equal to $5.12 a share, compared with $8,126,687, or $5.42 a share, in the first half of 1940.

First National reported increases for the three months and the year in total deposits, in loans and discounts, and in holdings of government securities. Comparative figures: Total deposits, $1,261,276,000 on June 30, $1,153,719,000 on April 4, 1941, and $1,140,724,000 on June 29, 1940; loans and discounts, $354,133,000, $345,470,000, and $264,807,000; holdings of federal securities, $449,220,000, $448,483,000, and $395,484,000.

Indicated profit of the First National for the first half of 1941 was $2,963,293, equal to $9.88 a share, compared with $2,323,622, or $7.74 a share, in the first six months of 1940.

Harris Trust Shows Gains.

Harris Trust reported gains for the three months and the year in total deposits and in loans and discounts. It held a smaller amount of federal securities than on April 4, but more than it held a year ago.

Northern Trust company showed increases for both periods in deposits, loans, and government security holdings.

City National's deposits and loans were larger for both the three months and the year, but the bank held less federal obligations than it did on April 4, altho the amount was larger than a year earlier.

The Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank reported that its total deposits rose to $15,286,000, from $14,550,000 three months ago, and that loans and discounts were up to $6,050,000, from $5,425,000. The loans were the largest since before the general banking moratorium of 1933.

National Boulevard bank's total deposits climbed to $20,753,000, from $15,848,000, and loans and discounts to $4,275,000 from $4,055,000.

Plot to Fix Hog Price Charged by U. S. Jury

An indictment accusing three Chicago meat packing companies, seven officials of the companies, and two trade associations of conspiring to fix prices for hogs slaughtered in Chicago was returned yesterday by a federal grand jury before Judge Michael L. Igoe.

The indictment is the second aimed at the packers in the government's current campaign against alleged monopolistic practices in food marketing here. On June 19 the same three companies and two of the same officials were named in an indictment charging them with conspiring to fix prices paid to producers of sheep.

Defendants Are Listed.

The packing companies and officials made defendants in the indictment are: Wilson & Co., and Thomas E. Wilson, chairman of the board; Armour & Co., George E. Eastwood, president; W. S. Clithero, vice president, and F. M. Sherwood, an executive in charge of hog buying; Swift & Co., John Holmes, president; S. W. Lund, vice president, and F. E. Knutzen, an executive in charge of hog buying.

The American Meat institute, an association of meat packers, and the hog section of the Chicago subcommittee of the Joint Marketing Improvement committee, an association of packers and commission firms, were the trade associations indicted.

The indictment alleged that during the last three years the defendants pegged the prices they paid to farmers in local markets to the price paid on the Chicago market by suppressing competition among themselves.

Charge Price Agreement.

At meetings in Chicago, the indictment recited, the defendants agreed on the prices they would pay as well as on the hours during which they would trade.

As a result, producers were deprived of any bargaining advantage they might obtain in any market other than the Chicago market, the indictment charged. According to the bill, the packers purchased only 30 per cent of their total kill of hogs in Chicago and the remaining 70 per cent at local buying points.

Representatives of the three meat firms and the American Meat institute issued statements last night denying any law violations.

"We are confident the company and its officers and employés have conducted our hog buying operations strictly in conformity with the law and with sound economic practices," President Eastwood of Armour & Co. asserted.

He described the purchase of hogs direct from farmers as the "basis for a long standing controversy," said an investigation by the department of agriculture a few years ago had found that it did not reduce competition for hogs.

"Swift & Co. holds the view that the manner in which the producer sells is elective with him," said Holmes. "We must be prepared to buy in any manner the producer chooses if we are to get an adequate supply of hogs."

Officials of the American Meat institute asserted that "grand jury investigations are ex parte proceedings that hear only one side of the case and it is not within their province to determine either guilt or innocence."

FIRST DAY OF FISCAL YEAR SENDS FEDERAL DEBT PAST 49 BILLION

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The federal debt went past 49 billion dollars on the first day of the new fiscal year which began Tuesday. The treasury said today that on that date it owed $49,074,689,379, a new record. The legal limit was 49 billions until congress agreed this spring to permit additional financing in connection with the arms program and raised the limit to 65 billions. During the last year the debt increased $5,994,000,000.

As the first instalment on the new fiscal year's anticipated record $22,269,000,000 expenditures, the treasury spent $139,417,062 on the first day. Receipts were $9,111,955 and the year started off with a $130,305,107 deficit.

The first day's defense expenditures were $26,006,399, about an average day for recent weeks.

STETTINIUS LISTS FOUR POINT AIMS IN PRIORITY RULE

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special].—E. R. Stettinius Jr., Office of Production Management director of priorities, announced today that his division is administering orders imposing industry-wide mandatory control over the distribution of 14 basic materials and a mild form of inventory control over 15 metals and classes of metals.

During the last six months, he said, the priorities division has put increasing emphasis on four points which he described as follows:

"Education. No amount of policing can take the place of understanding coöperation, freely and willingly given.

"Scheduling. Materials should be ordered for delivery when they are required, not before.

"Substitution. Critical materials are going to become even scarcer in the future. Non-military producers must switch to less scarce materials as promptly as possible."

Luxuries 'Out' in War Period, Says OPM Aid

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Robert E. McConnell, chief of the conservation section of the Office of Production Management, warned today that Americans must resign themselves to many substitute products and a sharp decrease in luxuries.

"We can have the necessities of life and all-out defense too," he said, "but we cannot have the luxuries of life and all-out defense too."

He listed many objects which will feel the effect of conservation, substitution, and simplification of design. Plowmakers have reduced their 1,400 varieties to 300 types—"which should suffice for all types of soil," McConnell said.

Garbage Pails "Save" Zinc.

Galvanized fences and garbage pails will be dipped in zinc three times instead of five; the garbage pails will not last as long, he said, and the fences will require painting in seven years instead of ten.

The OPM will ask filling stations to post signs urging the conservation of rubber. They will ask motorists to "observe speed laws, go slow on curves, adjust brakes, align wheels, inflate tires properly."

Shaving cream tubes will be made of tin-lined lead instead of tin; a derivative of reclaimed rubber will be used in soda water bottle tops instead of cork.

2 Car Owners "Unpatriotic."

Corn and potato starch adhesives will be used instead of imported tapioca for the mucilage on envelopes, and automobile tire makers will offer fewer styles of tires.

"It won't be patriotic for any one to buy a yacht, and it won't be patriotic for any one to own two cars if one will do," he said.

MEETING CALLED TO EXPEDITE USE OF OIL TANK CARS

Fayette B. Dow, consultant to Ralph Budd, transportation commissioner of the Office of Emergency Management, yesterday called a meeting for Monday in the Stevens hotel to discuss transportation problems with railroad tank car owners and lessees.

The purpose of the meeting is to create an organization to coördinate the efforts toward the maximum utilization of all tank cars available during the present emergency. An attempt will be made to learn how many cars could be put into service to transport oil from southwestern and western points to the Atlantic seaboard in order to alleviate a threatened oil shortage in the east this winter.

Move to Force Divorce Upon Cities Service

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today ordered proceedings looking to divorcement of the utility and nonutility empires which compose the $1,153,000,000 Cities Service company, holding company system.

The commission said that members of its staff had held a series of informal conferences with the company on a coöperative program and that it "believes that thru the continued coöperation of Cities Service an early conclusion of the proceedings will be possible."

The SEC said the issue raised under integration provisions of the holding company act was whether Cities Service should be required to dispose of its directly held electric and gas distribution companies and its interests in Cities Service Power and Light company and Arkansas Natural Gas company, which are also holding companies.

Alternate Proposal Made.

The SEC order listed 45 utility companies in 16 states and Canada and 71 nonutility companies in 14 states, Canada, Mexico, Argentina, and France.

At the same time, the SEC began a proceeding to determine whether payment by Empire Gas and Fuel company of loans, advances or securities held by Cities Service "may jeopardize the financial integrity of Empire Gas and may be detrimental to the public interest or the interest of investors or consumers."

With reference to this phase, the SEC said that Cities Service holds $34,250,000 of open account indebtedness of Empire Gas and all but $12,000,000 of the $52,000,000 of outstanding preferred stock, on which dividends arrearages totaling $33,068,347 have accumulated since 1932.

May Prohibit Payments.

The commission said that it might be necessary to prohibit payment by Empire Gas of principal or interest on loans, advances or securities held by Cities Service so long as there are dividend arrearages on preferred stock held by the public.

Cities Service was given until Aug. 2 to reply to the order and a hearing was scheduled for Aug. 19. Cities Service has $56,414,000 invested in utilities companies having assets totaling $438,000,000 and has invested $277,051,000 in nonutility companies having assets totaling $715,400,000.

Pointing to the preponderance of nonutility investment, the company had sought exemption from the public utility holding company act, but this was denied last Dec. 23 and the company then registered under the act. The SEC then adopted a special rule to permit Cities Service to operate its nonutility properties without many of the restrictions imposed upon utility companies.

RAILROADS SET 11 YEAR RECORD IN FREIGHT TRAFFIC

Revenue freight loadings by railroads last week passed the 900,000 car mark for the first time in 11 years and reached the highest total since the week ended Nov. 2, 1930, according to figures announced yesterday by the Associatiton of American Railroads.

Loadings for the week ended June 28 totaled 908,664 cars, an increase of 23,106 cars, or 2.6 per cent, over the preceding week, and an increase of 156,017 cars, or 20.7 per cent, over the corresponding week last year.

Coal shipments showed the largest increase over the preceding week with a gain of 9,753 cars.

Wholesale Prices Continue Upward in Last June Week

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The bureau of labor statistics reported today an increase of 0.6 per cent in the level of wholesale commodity prices for the week ended June 28, due largely to continued advances in prices of farm products and foods. The bureau's index now stands at 87.7 per cent of the 1926 average. A year ago it was 77.7.

RFC EXTENDS LOAN SUIT TO ADDITIONAL BANK SHAREHOLDERS

With the permission of Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe, the Reconstruction Finance corporation yesterday filed an amended bill under which, according to lawyers, it will seek to collect an additional $400,000 from 800 stockholders of the old Central Republic Bank and Trust company.

In another action Circuit Judge Philip Finnegan directed the transfer of $586,000 held by Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor, to Charles H. Albers, general receiver for closed state banks in Illinois. The funds represent the proceeds from the liquidation of securities deposited under the Illinois trust act to protect beneficiaries of trusts under the bank's jurisdiction. Albers had petitioned the court for the funds to pay adjudicated claims of creditors.

In amending its bill the RFC added stockholders of record as of July 25, 1931, to those against whom it has already proceeded under double liability provisions of the state banking laws and from whom more than $9,000,000 has been collected. Earlier action was against those who owned stock on dates in 1932 when instalments of the $90,000,000 RFC loan were released to the bank. Later the bank's deposit liabilities were assumed by the City National Bank and Trust company.

Judge Igoe set Sept. 17 for filing answers to the amendment. Judge Finnegan is expected to begin to hear creditors' petitions for preference the week of Aug. 18.

NEW PROBLEMS REPLACE OLD IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Price Ceiling Called Blow to Profit.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—A brand new set of problems is being created for the nation's No. 1 industry as it strives to fit its mass production methods to the building of armaments, a survey of Michigan's automobile center discloses.

Pushed into the background are such vexing old matters as surplus stocks of used cars, dealer relationships, and drives to increase sales. Automobile company executives now list among their big worries:

1. How to operate profitably as wage and material costs rise under a national policy which would impose a ceiling on car prices.
2. How to get supplies of essential raw materials.
3. Priorities.

Fear "Saying Wrong Thing."

Automobile company executives are reluctant to talk publicly because of their close relations with Washington and their fear of repercussions if they "should say the wrong thing." But they discuss their problems privately. Most of those interviewed said the nation must arm itself and they want to coöperate in this to the fullest. But they wish that Washington would be more understanding of the automobile industry's peculiar problems and that some order could be brought out of the confusion at the capital.

"Our big worry in the future will be simply to keep our heads above water if the administration succeeds in enforcing a ceiling on car prices while we are compelled to pay higher wages and more for our supplies," one executive said. "We will do well to stay in business.

"I don't understand the kind of economics that would restrict automobile output, bless wage increases, and then refuse to let us set prices for our products which would assure an adequate return."

Fear Economics Upset.

Automobile leaders said that any action that disturbs a satisfactory supply of automobiles at prices the public can afford to pay will seriously disturb the national economy.

Some company executives said that a moderate reduction in output will not disturb them because of the heavy purchases of 1941 models by the public. But what is causing assembly line worry is the frequent changes in requirements as to materials and the establishment of priorities on metals at a time when the arms industry is not able to use them.

Differing opinions are expressed as to the number of private automobiles that will be built during the calender year 1942.

One executive said there is a strong possibility that the number may be under a million. Another said he expects that Washington will find that the materials' shortages are not as acute as they are supposed to be.

Auto Production Slumps.

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., today estimated automobile production this week at 96,457 units, attributing the decline from last week's 127,926 to the four day schedules prevailing because of the Independence day holiday. A year ago this week assemblies numbered 51,975. The agency forecast an increase next week, but said that volume would not come up to pre-holiday levels.

TIRE PRICE RULE IS DEFERRED BY LEON HENDERSON

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that the fixing of ceiling prices on tires, tubes, and other finished rubber products would be deferred for "some months."

Meantime, he said, the industry will have opportunity to work out its price problem "on a voluntary basis."

Last month Henderson announced that the price ceiling schedule would be set this week at price levels which prevailed on June 16.

A series of conferences with tire manufacturers, distributors and dealers has convinced the OPACS that present low levels of tire and tube prices would in all likelihood continue, Henderson's statement said.

Tower Quits OPM Under Trade Association Rule

Washington, July 3 [Special],—The Office of Production Management today announced the resignation of Walter S. Tower in conformity with the recently adopted policy of making officials of trade organizations ineligible for OPM service. Tower, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, had been in the OPM priorities division.

Big Gun Carriage Is Accepted by Army After Trial Run Here

A modern eight-wheeled artillery carriage, capable of carrying one of the army's big 155 mm. field guns at speeds up to 75 miles an hour on good roads, was put thru a series of road tests yesterday during a 30 mile trial run thru the north suburban areas of the city. The carriage, which was accepted officially by army representatives after the test, is the first of its kind ever manufactured by a Chicago company.

The Pettibone Mulliken corporation, 4710 Division street—in normal times a manufacturer of railroad and roadbuilding equipment—is the maker of the new carriages. The company received an army contract last September to manufacture 300 of the carriages, each of which weighs 16,000 pounds, at a total cost of $3,817,000. This was the first one off the assembly line.

Longer than a Street Car.

A 155 mm. gun barrel and recoil mechanism, sent here from the army arsenal at Rock Island, was mounted on the new carriage especially for yesterday's road tests. With the gun barrel in position, the overall weight was 15 tons, and the overall length of the weapon, not including the truck which pulled it, was 27 feet. With the truck in position, the machine proved to be longer than a Chicago street car.

The 155 mm. gun fires a shell weighing 95 pounds a maximum distance of 26,000 yards [nearly 15 miles], according to army officers. It is considered one of the most powerful road-hauled weapons of the army.

Chicago Gets One Glimpse.

Chicagoans got what will probably be their first and only glimpse of the new carriage with its gun yesterday when it was hauled from the Pettibone-Mulliken yards and taken north along Cicero avenue and Skokie highway to the Bob o' Link Country club, where it was accepted for the army by Col. Donald Armstrong, executive officer of the Chicago ordnance district.

The carriage was hauled by a 300 horsepower commercial truck tractor during its tests. In army use, it will be pulled by a 10 ton caterpillar treaded prime mover, capable of carrying 100 rounds [9,500 pounds] of ammunition also.

STOCKS IGNORE WAR NEWS AND CONTINUE CLIMB

Resist Late Selling; Few Reach New Highs.

New York, July 3 (AP).—The stock market maintained its balance today in the face of cloudier war news, prospects of a record tax bill and indications of further federal restrictions on industry.

Mild forward tendencies were displayed at the start in fairly active dealings. There was some let-down in prices after midday, but fractional advances were well in the majority at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net gain of .1 of a point at 41.8 on top of a .2 upturn the day before. Transfers rose to 463,770 shares against 394,540 Wednesday.

Shorts Cover for Holiday.

Brokers reported considerable short covering by those who wanted to have a fairly clean slate over tomorrow's holiday when all major markets will recess. In addition, there was a smattering of investment buying on the idea trends recently have shown a disposition to ignore bearish foreign developments.

New highs for the year were posted by Pepsi-Cola, whose directors voted a $1 dividend late yesterday; American Woolen preferred and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies common and preferred.

Aircraft Shares Mount.

Doubias Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, United Aircraft, and Consolidated Aircraft responded to mounting orders for army and navy planes with modest improvement.

Others on the upside included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Woolworth, American Telephone, Kennecott, Anaconda, du Pont, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, Johns-Manville, and Philip Morris. General Motors and Chrysler declined.

Pirelli of Italy [American shares] slumped 38¼ points to 37½ on the first sale since June 7.

CHICAGO LIST FIRM.

Gains exceeded declines in transfer of 16,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Standard Dredge paced the list in turnover of 800 shares, closing at 2½, up ⅜. Standard Oil of Indiana and Midland Utilities 6 per cent prior lien set 1941 highs at 31 and 14½, up ⅛ and ⅜, respectively.

A comparison of several dually listed issues, showing the changes from the New York close during the trading from 2 to 2:30 o'clock, follows:

2 CONCERNS VOTE FIRST DIVIDENDS SINCE DECEMBER

Two companies yesterday declared their first dividends since last December. The Pepsi-Cola company voted $1 and Newport Industries, Inc., producer of rosin and turpentine, 25 cents.

Cessna Aircraft company ordered an initial distribution of 70 cents. Waukesha Motor company voted a 25 cent extra payment. The Central Power and Light company declared arrears dividends of $1.16⅔ and $1 on its 7 per cent and 6 per cent preferred shares, respectively, in addition to the regular quarterly disbursements on the issues.

TEXTILE PRICE RULE DISRUPTS TRADE IN CLOTH

Deliveries Held Up Under Many Contracts.

Hasty price fixing by Leon Henderson's Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply has paralyzed the cotton textile market, trade leaders asserted yesterday.

Terming as "disappointing and confusing" the maximum prices set recently on six classifications of gray goods — the mill product sold to finishers and converters — they said that the industry virtually has halted trading.

The OPACS order provides that after June 30, regardless of any previous commitments, no person shall sell or deliver or accept delivery of cotton gray goods at prices above the "ceilings."

Manufacturers Hold Up Goods.

With current prices ranging from 1 to 7 cents a pound more than these levels, manufacturers generally are refusing to fill contracted orders. A few, however, are delivering the goods to some customers, crediting them with the difference in the two levels.

"This order seems to insist that the cotton textile industry abandon the principle of sanctity of contracts, a principle fundamental to the entire operation of the industry," W. Ray Bell, president of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, said.

Industry spokesmen attacked the ceiling also because it makes no provision for fluctuations in the two basic elements of cost—cotton and labor.

Raw Costs, Wages Rise.

Cotton has risen more than 40 per cent since March, and on June 30, the day after the OPACS schedule was published, a 15 per cent wage increase was put into effect for the whole industry by the department of labor, they explained.

"OPACS and the cotton textile industry share two principal objectives at this time," Bell said. "The first is to maintain and increase production, that there may be no shortage of materials. The second is to prevent inflation. To gain the latter objective at the expense of the former is, I am sure, no acceptable solution to the problem. Yet the provisions of the OPACS order are such as to make that a very possible outcome."

Plan Sending 600,000 Bales of Cotton to Great Britain

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The United States will supply Great Britain with more than 600,000 bales of cotton under terms of the lend-lease program, authoritative sources said today. The cotton will be taken from government stocks acquired under grower loan operations.

RETAILERS' CASH REGISTERS RING A HOTTER TUNE

New York, July 3 [Special.]—Sales of seasonal goods boomed to new heights this week as retailers felt the public's demand to meet hot weather needs, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today in its weekly review. Volume for the country averaged 18 to 22 per cent above a year ago, the agency said.

"Wholesale trading remained brisk as retailers continued to order fall merchandise freely "the agency said." Many buyers who had already covered a large share of requirements for fall were back in the market. Bookings jumped as much as two and three times above last year's level in some lines."

LIGHT HOGS RISE 10 CENTS; HEAVY CLASSES STEADY

The market for hogs ruled steady to 10 cents higher yesterday, with the most improvement in stock under 240 pounds in weight. Despite weakness in wholesale markets for fresh pork and the upturn in lard futures, buyers showed a preference for the hogs that go mostly as fresh cuts of meat.

Several shipments of 200 to 230 pound young hogs brought the top price of $10.85 a hundred pounds. The spread between light and heavy hogs reached the widest point in 14 weeks.

TODAY Can Be

INDEPENDENCE Day

for YOU

You can move into a complete home in this restricted and unique community now, pay as little as $85 monthly, including even taxes and insurance, and BE CERTAIN your payments will never be more.

Beside this assurance against rising rents, your family will enjoy far greater comfort at Inverness . . . you'll soon have a valuable property all your own, instead of just rent receipts. Here your housing dollar buys more.

And you'll find no other place like Inverness. Here, south of Barrington, 1,484 acres of hills and woods, our own 18 hole golf course, distinctive homes, and good restrictions protect your property values and combine suburban convenience with real country freedom.

Every home is new, designed for extra comfort and longer life. Nearly 30 are occupied, several are being built for owners and 3 are just finished for your selection. Be sure to see them today; note that every home is surrounded by acreage, not a "lot."

Visit the all-brick Monterey, its lawns blending with our own golf course. Note its exceptionally rugged construction and appealing design: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, 2 car attached garage, authentic balcony and screened porch overlooking greens and fairways. You can own this fine residence for only $104 monthly.
